Chief of Staff

The most pretentious attempt to stimulate interest in military affairs this city has seen since war days is scheduled for tonight at the Memorial Auditorium when a mass meeting under the auspices of the Organized Reserve will be addressed by Senator David I. Walsh, Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Major Gen. Mark L. Hersey, Gen. Andre Brewster and Gen. Robert L. Bullard.

The meeting will be preceded by a street parade in which many local organizations will participate including officers and enlisted men of the Organized Reserve from Middlesex and Essex counties, National Guard companies

CITY DEPARTMENTS EXCEED THEIR APPROPRIATIONS DURING FIRST THREE MONTHS OF YEAR

The quarterly appropriations statement issued today by the city auditor shows that some of the city departments have exceeded their appropriations during the first three months of the year, particularly the street department, which has expended the sum of $12,540.10 over its appropriation. Another large excess in expense is noted in the Vocational school department, the figures being $1,123.24. The isolation hospital has also an over-expenditure to its credit of $1,211.10.

In the case of the street department it was pointed out that the heavy winter storms were responsible for the big increase in expenses, but it is expected that this department will live within its appropriation for the remainder of the year. The deficit noted in the ash department amounts to $548.78 and this too was due to the fact that the department was hard hit by the storms and cold weather. For the Auditorium maintenance the appropriation was exceeded by $15.14, building department, $740.66; city clerk's, $24.74; city hall, $215.14; mothers with dependent children.

IMPORTANT EVENTS ON THE PROGRAM FOR TODAY

Before the sun sets tonight Lowell will have been distinctly honored by the presence of three ranking generals of the United States army and Hon. David I. Walsh, junior senator from Massachusetts. The generals who are coming at the invitation of the Organized Reserve are General Mark L. Hersey, General Andre Brewster and General Robert L. Bullard. They will be guests of the city at dinner at the Washington club at 8 p. m. and will address the mass meeting at the Memorial Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

It is a particularly busy day for Senator Walsh. He came over the road from Clinton this forenoon, where he was met by George F. Wells, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and Hon. James B. Casey and John V. Donoghue, representing Lowell council, Knights of Columbus. At 12:30 o'clock he was the honored guest and speaker at a chamber of commerce luncheon in Liberty hall; this evening he is the principal speaker at Patriots day exercises at the R. C. club, will deliver an address at the Organized Reserve meeting and will drop in at the Notre Dame Alumnae party in Liberty hall.

With the parade of military and semi-military organizations as an added feature of the Organized Reserve meeting, one of the most colorful days of the season will be experienced by the city's people.

Says N. E. Face to Face With Problem of Disrupted
Transportation Service

That political "blobs" represent the danger signals of the future, that they have a tendency to throttle the common good and elevate sectional desires and that New England today faces a crisis in her industrial life because of which raw materials are found and the existence of a broken-down transportation system, were salient declarations made by Senator David I. Walsh this noon, while addressing 350 members of the chamber of commerce and Lowell Advertising club at a luncheon in Liberty hall.

The senator unavoidably was a little late in arriving and, therefore, restricted his talk to a comparatively brief and cursory survey of present-day economic problems as they affect New England, Lowell and all other textile centers within the commonwealth.

A reception committee representing the chamber included H. Huttons

LOWELL'S OBSERVANCE OF PATRIOTS DAY WILL INCLUDE REUNION OF OLD 6TH REGIMENT

CAPT. JOSIAH M. JONES

Lowell tomorrow, with other Massachusetts and Maine cities and towns, will observe Patriots day, legalized as a holiday in these two states, and ones more will cherish memories of that gallant band of Middlesex county farmers who sprang to arms on that April morning in 1775 when a foe from across the sea threatened the very foundations of the liberty upon which the 13 original states were founded.

Coming at the very threshold of spring, when it is good to get out of doors after a typical New England winter, this annual holiday primarily is marked by outside recreational opportunities and so it will be tomorrow, which ushers in the actual baseball season in the city and if the day is fair, will send hundreds of golfers to the three courses Lowell is so fortunate to possess.

The only military aspect of the observance will be the annual reunion of the Old Sixth Massachusetts regiment at Memorial hall. Although the ranks of this gallant organization are thinned perceptibly and Lowell now is able to honor hardly more than a dozen survivors, the spirit of Civil war days still glows as a consuming flame and to-

CINCINNATI, April 18.—Traveling at a high rate of speed, an automobile driven by Roland A. Meyer, secretary-treasurer of the H. H. ### WILL USE OIL FOR FUEL INSTEAD OF COAL

Within a few weeks, coal burning at the Waterhead Mills, Inc., in Lawrence street, will be a thing of the past, for the company officials are making arrangements to shift their power plant from coal to oil burning, and a permit for the erection of a new power plant at the mill has been issued at the office of the superintendent of public buildings at city hall.

The permit calls for the erection of a one-story brick pump house along the canal in Lawrence street and a large oil storage tank. The cost of the new equipment will be in the neighborhood of $30,000 and as soon as the new buildings are erected it is understood the company will operate its plant on oil exclusively.

Catherine E. Devine was granted a permit this morning for the erection of a one-story concrete brick building at 718-724 Central street. The building will be utilized for a store and will cost in the vicinity of $20,000.

The property consisting of a 15-room house and large stable and 100,000 square feet of land located at the corner of Middlesex and Elder streets, owned by the Alfred S. Worme estate, has been purchased by the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston for Notre Dame de Lourdes parish, which is under the direction of the Oblate fathers. The sale was effected through the office of St. Pierre & Bergeron and the price was in the vicinity of $25,000.

When asked this morning for what purpose the property had been purchased, Rev. Guillaume Ouellette, O.M.I., pastor of Notre Dame de Lourdes, stated that plans had not as yet been formulated and that he had no statement to make at present. It was learned from other sources, however, that the parish is contemplating erecting a new and larger church on the new site and that pending the time that plans are completed for the new building, the building on the site may be used as a home for

Will Plant Memorial Trees In The Lincoln Memorial Reservation

JOINT ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE OF MASSACHUSETTS SOCIETY IN WASHINGTON

When Massachusetts mayors and other officials of Bay State cities arrive in Washington on May 4 to participate in the exercises of planting memorial trees on the Lincoln Memorial reservation, they will be met and cordially greeted by an enterprising committee of men and women representing the Massachusetts society of Washington.

This committee, numbering 20 or more persons who are proud to call the old Bay State "home," is of particular interest locally inasmuch as two of its members, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Hunter are Lowell folks. In the accompanying picture they stand at the end of the second and third rows. It is the desire of the Lowell park commission that some person from Lowell shall represent the city at the National Arbor day exercises which will be marked by the planting of the memorial trees, one tree for every city of size in the country. Mayor John J. Donovan feels he cannot accept an invitation to make the trip and the park commissioners now are attempting to find some one who will represent Lowell in place of His Honor.

Every effort is being made by the Massachusetts Mayors' club to secure the attendance of a large delegation from this state and practically every mayor will be in the party. Already the following bookings have been made:

Mayor James M. Curley of Boston and Mrs. Curley. Hon. Charles H.

Thurston of Cambridge, Mrs. Thurston and daughter; Mayor C. F. Sawtelle of Leominster and Mrs. Sawtelle; Robert L. Carter, city treasurer of Leominster, and Mrs. Carter; Mayor C. H. Pearson of Gardner, and Mrs. Pearson; State Senator Charles H. Harrison of Gardner, and Mrs. Harrison; Mayor William D. McFee and Edward M. Davis of Haverhill; Mayor Edwin F. Leonard of Springfield; and Mrs. Leonard; Mayor J. M. Grise of Chicopee, and Mrs. Grise; Mayor Harry L. Bicknell of Northampton and Mrs. Bicknell; Mayor John B. Fellows of Pittsfield, and Mrs. Fellows; former Mayor John Larabee of Melrose and Mrs. Larabee; Mayor Gustave B. Bates of Quincy, and Mrs. Bates, and Mayor Edward T. Simon of Marlboro.

SPEAKER BANKS ON SHERROD SMITH

"I regard Sherrod Smith as a regular. I am sure he will win a lot of ball games. I am banking strongly on him to help the Indians finish in the first division," says Manager Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Indians. National league managers are inclined to believe that Speaker is over-optimistic. Said one well known manager from that organization in discussing Smith's case: "A pitcher who can deliver in the American league should be equally effective in the National. Southpaws are scarce, so it stands to reason that none of us thought Smith had a chance or we would never have waited him out of the league."

Another manager says: "Smith had his troubles getting by a couple of innings in the Nationals. One year Manager Robinson only started him once or twice all season."

Regardless of what the National leaguers think, Speaker seems confident that he will win for the Indians. "If picking the spots will help Smith's cause I will certainly try to use some judgment. St. Louis, Chicago

INSTANTLY IT OPENED AND THERE STOOD CINDERELLA

The next place the Twins came to, of her is printing all over. She can't see very well. With two eyes she might do better.

"I'll look over all my pictures," said the story teller, "and see if we can match her."

She brought out book after book and magazine after magazine, with all sorts of cut-outs in all shapes and sizes.

"Here is where she was cut out," said the story teller, pointing to a page with a hole in it. Indeed, it was a perfect outline of the Cut-Out Lady, sharp nose and all.

"Why I do believe this picture on the other page matches her exactly," said the story teller. "Just see how it fits. You take up scissors and cut it out and paste it on her other side, then she will have two good sides and two good eyes. Then, perhaps, she can see the Gingerbread Man's buttons on stalks!"

"How do you do?" she said. "What story would you like to hear?"

"We haven't time for a story, thank you," said Nancy. "We have come to see if you can match the other side of the Cut-Out Lady. She's only got one side and one eye—the other side

Lowell Delegation Votes in Favor of Rep. Doyle's Amendment

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 18.—Lowell's representatives were still "wet" after noses had been counted in the house yesterday when the lower body ordered to a third reading the State Volstead bill. The bill, which was sponsored by the Anti-Saloon league, is intended to allow prosecutions in the state courts for the manufacture and transportation of liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol.

All of the Lowell delegation in the house voted in favor of an amendment introduced by Rep. Andrew P. Doyle of New Bedford providing that the bill be referred to the next annual session. The amendment was rejected on a roll call, 117 to 104. No roll call was taken on the question of ordering the bill to a third reading.

Rep. Henry A. Schin, Jr., Owen E. Brennan, Thomas J. Corbett, Victor F. Jewett, Fred O. Lewis, and Charles H. Slattery all voted with Rep. Doyle, although none of them spoke against the bill.

Why we awake dull, sluggish, dispirited and weary

The reason why sleep is refreshing and strengthening

Sleep is nature's method of repairing the wear and tear that is constantly going on while we are awake. As soon as we fall asleep, all the organs of the body "slow down" in their work. It is for this reason that a sleeping person breathes more slowly and his pulse is much less rapid.

This "slowing down" of all the organs enables them to take in more energy from the blood than they expend in the performance of their different functions, and the result is that they accumulate a sufficient surplus of this vital power to meet the demands of the waking hours to follow. We feel vigorous, brightly, strong and energetic when we awake from a night's sound sleep, because during all that time the organs have been receiving nutritive elements from the blood faster than they could use them.

But when the blood is deficient in nutritive elements—when it does not contain enough of them to supply an abundance to every organ during sleep—we awake dull, sluggish, dispirited and weary because the organs have not been able to accumulate a surplus of vital power. We often tire in the early hours of our morning's work because the organs have not been able to store up a reserve energy during the night before.

If your sleep is not sound and refreshing; if you roll and toss all through the night and wake up in the morning feeling gloomy, sullen, sluggish, "out of sorts" and weary, it is probably because your blood is not rich enough in nutritive elements to meet the demand of all the organs of your body. If the condition is neglected, the loss of vigor may soon be followed by nervous exhaustion or a seriously debilitated constitution. In order to prevent a serious break-down, you should begin taking a tonic and restorative preparation of the right sort.

Wincarnis

The Reconstructive Tonic

Wincarnis is a preparation of the elements that are necessary in the repair of wear and tear of the organs and nervous system. It contains these elements in a form in which they are rapidly absorbed into the blood and are carried to every part of the body to be converted into vital power. Wincarnis is a general tonic and restorative intended especially for those who suffer from weakness, sluggishness, loss of vigor, nervousness or a debilitated constitution. For almost half a century, physicians have prescribed this preparation for the weak, anemic, nervous and run-down. A single bottle is often sufficient to restore one's energy, strength and vital power.

Nurses' Home at Lowell Corporation Hospital

The large and beautiful addition to the present nurses' home of the Lowell Corporation hospital is rapidly nearing completion and it is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by July 1.

Upon the completion of the building the hopes of the hospital officials for years will be attained and all the nurses will be accommodated under one roof, in quarters ample to their needs, and with the most modern equipment.

The addition under construction consists of another story added to the old home, making it three stories high, and an ell which is also three stories high. The whole building is of wood and will, when finished, be painted white with green blinds to match the finish on the hospital building proper.

The old nurses' home is being completely renovated to present an appearance of newness throughout the whole structure. The entrance to the building is on the side facing the hospital building and is of colonial style. Stairways are located on the Merrimack street end of the old structure and the Salem street end of the new.

On the first floor of the old section is located a suite, consisting of sitting room, bed room and bath, for the superintendent of nurses; a reception room and a library. In the new section on this floor are ten bedrooms, one bath, one linen room and a sun room with a hall running the length of the addition. On the second floor of the old building are five bedrooms and a bath; in the new section are 11 bedrooms, a bath and a sun room. The third floor over the old building is new and contains five bedrooms and one bath. The third floor in the addition has 11 bedrooms, a bath, and a sun room, with a hall running the length of the building.

The flooring of the first story of the old section is of oak, the other floors are all finished with linoleum covering. The interiors will be painted. The bath rooms are floored with tile, and the walls are of tile half way up, being painted above.

Lighting fixtures are of the newest type and outlets are placed in convenient places so that vacuum sweepers and other electrical appliances may be easily attached. A feature of the building's equipment is a dust chute having openings on each floor for the shaking of coats and dresses. This chute is cleared by an electric fan which is placed on the top of the building and forces the dust down into a receptacle in the basement.

In the basement is located an up-to-date laundry and the heating equipment. This is of the single-pipe steam style with a large boiler.

A telephone connecting with the main hospital building will be placed in each corridor to facilitate the calling of nurses to the hospital in case of emergency.

The estimated cost of the building is $70,000. Davis & Ryan were the architects and Robinson and Robinson the general contractors.

A small house, with fifteen rooms, which formerly stood where the addition is now, has been moved to a position nearer the hospital and farther away from the street.

At the present time there are 30 pupil nurses and seven graduate nurses located at the hospital. They are living in several houses close by the hospital and will, when the home is completed, all live under one roof, where each nurse will have a room for her own use.

CHELMSFORD WATER DISTRICT MEETING ADDRESSED THE EDUCATIONAL CLUB

Every article in the warrant for the Chelmsford water district meeting, which was held last evening in the Centre town hall, was acted upon favorably. The meeting was largely attended and Walter Perham acted as moderator. The amounts voted and the purpose of the votes were as follows: Extension of the water main in Steadman street to the home of Mrs. Nellie Waller, $1200; extension in Woodbine street, Westland avenue and Sprague street, $1200; refund to Geo. W. Day for the extension of water service at Mustardfield park, $207.50; extension in Sunset avenue, $600; extension in Dalton road, $4530. It was also voted to change article one of the by-laws so that the annual meeting of the district shall be held on the last Monday in January instead of the third Monday as heretofore.

Miss Edith Terry gave a very interesting talk yesterday afternoon to the members of the Educational club at their meeting in the Central M. E. church. Miss Terry has made a thorough study of conditions in foreign communities in this country during the past 10 years and it was regarding this subject that she spoke. The research work which she undertook was with the national board of the Y. W. C. A. and many of her observations were of life in New York city.

In discussing the attitude of the English speaking peoples toward the foreign born, Miss Terry said that they took one of four different attitudes which are as follows: "First, the person who speaks of his Americanism in a wonderful way, says that he speaks English, these people do not, they eat and even act differently from what he does, which is right, so they are wrong. Second, the folks who are sentimentally and romantically interested in some specific problem when their sympathies are worked on through tragic stories. Third, an attitude of indifference. Fourth, are the few in number who feel that here is a challenge to all that is best in us as Americans. A willingness to face facts as they are, open and unflinching, realizing that no one group in the world ever was absolutely right and the other all wrong. Personally, I know of no other solution of the problem but to apply the Golden Rule."

BAND BOX SCENE IN "THE JADE GONG"

One of the numbers of "The Jade Gong," the musical revue to be given by the Girls' City club in the Auditorium tomorrow night, is the band-box scene. This is laid in a French hat shop. Miss Lusienne Belanger, dancer and singer, is the French maid, Frederick Brydon, of New York, is a visitor to the shop and Miss Doris Conley will be "the girl in the band-box."

The dancing chorus in this specialty is done by six well-trained dancers, Miss Florence Seaton, Bertha Choquette, Madeline Burrows, Anna Conway, Helen Doran and Gladys Williams. The boxes for this scene were designed and decorated here in Lowell especially for this number.

The professional singers for this scene, Mr. Brydon and Russell Wentworth, are now in Lowell, and the dancer, L. Langdon Matthews, also of New York, will be here in time to take part in the dress rehearsal in the Auditorium tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

ANNUAL BALL BY LADIES OF CHARITY

The committees in charge of the annual ball of the Ladies of Charity of St. John's hospital have practically completed their plans for this affair which is to be held next Friday evening, and are looking forward to it as the most successful ball ever given by the association, and one of the outstanding social events of the season. The Hospital Aid association, composed of men is working in conjunction with the Ladies of Charity, and these two organizations are leaving no stones unturned in their effort to make the affair a great success.

time more nurses were needed than could be accommodated so the hospital purchased the building that is now being enlarged and fixed it up for a nurses' home. This did not answer the demands for any length of time so the small house, previously mentioned, was fitted up to accommodate 15 nurses. The idea of having the nurses in two or three different buildings was not the best from the standpoint of handiness and supervision, so it was finally decided to enlarge the house purchased in 1911. With the completion of the home, the Lowell Corporation hospital nurses will be well provided for.

The Corporation hospital was founded in 1833, the Kirk Booth house being moved to the corner of Merrimack and Pawtucket streets at that time to serve as a hospital. In the early years of its existence, 25 or 30 patients were taken care of yearly. As the corporations and the city have grown, the hospital has been enlarged to meet the demands made upon it. During the past year 2500 patients were cared for at the hospital as regular patients, staying for a length of time varying from a few days to several months, and 6625 were treated in the outpatient department.

The hospital gets its income partly from the patients, and whatever more is necessary for its continuance from the corporations which are members of the hospital corporation.

Up to 1911 the nurses were quartered in the hospital building. At that

MANY DELIVERIES BY
LOWELL MOTOR MART

High-water mark was attained in deliveries this week by the Lowell motor car dealers and shipping departments have been rushed both day and night getting out cars for owners, who, while they may have ordered weeks or even months ago were not willing to put their new cars on the road until they were reasonably certain of having good going. This year the winter conditions have held on so long that an unusually large number of April deliveries accumulated, one of the busiest of the local dealers the past few days has been the Lowell Motor Mart, the Dodge Brothers dealer, which has put out the largest number of cars in the course of the week that has been delivered in a similar period for many months. Anticipating the big rush for deliveries, this company has accumulated a large stock of cars, but with orders that have come in day after day, and are continuing at an unprecedented rate. It has been impossible to keep

NEVER have beauty, utility and mechanical goodness so effectively joined forces with economy as they have in this new Reo Coupe.

1923 is anticipated by its design of impressive dignity—by its never-grow-tiresome body lines and cord-tire-equipped steel disc wheels with demountable rims.

Under its richly finished paneling of sturdy steel is a rugged hardwood framework, fashioned and fabricated as only master coach-builders know how.

Over the wide, deep, springy seats is upholstering that makes instant friends by its appearance, and lasting ones by its wearing qualities.

Clubby coziness for four occupants, whether wide of girth or long of limb, is definitely assured by a clever seating arrangement. There's freedom of movement for all, with an extra measure for the driver.

Mechanical reliability that is institutionally Reo is built into the double-framed chassis, in which major units are cradled and protected against the effect of road shocks.

In the 6-cylinder engine is developed 50 horse power. Whether purring through city traffic, hurrying along the straight-aways or plodding over desert trails, the Reo owner takes motor goodness for granted.

Beautifully finished in Cuban gray, Reo blue or Burgundy. Price $1835 f. o. b. Lansing, plus Federal tax.

MILLION CAR PRODUCTION
Never has a motorist been so privileged to be so exacting in the choice of a Buick as in the present season, says Mr. Hule of the Buick Co. Fifteen different passenger models, both sixes and fours, covering the widest sort of range, are included in the line for 1923. Each is designed to meet particular motoring needs. Each is an outstanding value. This achievement in anticipating what the motoring public desires in a vehicle is attributed to the fact that Buick has been working along steadily on a production schedule that has made possible the building of 1,000,000 motor cars in 20 years.

PRICES TO ADVANCE
M. S. FEINDEL PREDICTS

Higher prices for automobiles continue to be a topic of discussion among automobile men. M. S. Feindel, one of Lowell's leading automobile dealers and one who has been in the business since 1909, says that the prices of automobiles must advance. The rising cost of materials and labor make the rising of automobile prices imperative. Already one of the cars which Mr. Feindel handles has advanced in price, and he expects other advances to follow.

NOTED CANADIAN TENOR
IS WELL RECEIVED

Paul Dufault, the celebrated tenor, who is commonly called the Canadian McCormack, demonstrated to a large and appreciative audience at the Memorial Auditorium last evening that he is a singer of great ability and capable of splendid interpretation. This was Mr. Dufault's first appearance before a Lowell audience and he made a very favorable impression.

The large hall was not filled, but the size of the audience was very gratifying, when the fact that several noted artists have visited Lowell during the past few months is taken into consideration. The 1500 or 2000 who were present, however, thoroughly enjoyed the program and showed their appreciation of the tenor's work by giving him numerous encores, and much to the credit of the artist he cheerfully responded to every encore given.

Mr. Dufault was ably assisted in the evening's program by William Bilodeau, a local violinist of wide reputation, who entertained very pleasingly with his numerous selections. Alfred Carrier, a brilliant pianist of Montreal, accompanied Mr. Dufault, and also rendered several difficult selections. The accompaniments for Mr. Bilodeau were played by Louis N. Guilbault of this city, organist at St. Margaret's church and director of the Guilbault academy of music.

The opening numbers were "Prelude," Opus 25 by Chopin and "Theme Variations" of Ciaconna, piano selections ably rendered by Mr. Carrier. This was followed by the playing of "Londonderry Air" on the violin by Mr. Bilodeau.

Mr. Dufault's first number was "Si vous croyez" by Offenbach, a simple but captivating song, which was rendered with great ease. This was followed by a pretty and appropriate ballad entitled "En Avril." As encores the artist sang "Ave C'est l'Angelus," and "L'Agnee," numbers that gave him a great opportunity to demonstrate the high and powerful range of his pleasing voice.

In his next group of songs which included "Bird of Love Divine" by Haydn-Wood, "Sylvain" by Sinding and "The Prodigal Son" by Sir Arthur Sullivan, the audience was afforded an opportunity of hearing his remarkable diction. Particularly pleasing was his "Bird of Love Divine," a masterpiece, which he rendered with smoothness and delightfully distinct enunciation.

Other numbers included "Dernieres Volontes" by Gounod, "A Des Oiseaux" by George Iles and Viatique. The last group of songs consisted of "O Little Mother of Mine," Nevin, "Four Leaf Clover" by Brownell and "Thank God for a Garden," Del Negro. His final number was "Adieu" by Fost. In the course of the program Mr. Dufault also rendered numerous old folk songs frequently heard in the villages of Canada and these numbers made a decided hit with the audience. All in all the evening's program was very enjoyable and it is fair to assume that Mr. Dufault will fill the large Auditorium at his next concert.

RAVE—AND PAY!

Even if Gas Goes Up, Don't Buy a Substitute

When summer comes, prepare to pay again against the high price of gasoline.

But don't go any further. Don't be misled into buying a substitute that is claimed to be "cheaper and more economical." Because "there ain't no such animal."

The farmer said that of the giraffe when it was actually before him, but the American motorist has nothing as yet that can prove its superiority over gasoline. Scientists who are testing certain fuel combinations expect to bring out a worthy substitute, but they are still experimenting.

Alcohol costly

Alcohol is being used in Cuba and other countries as motor fuel—but it's cheaper there than it is in this country. Gasoline, despite its inferiority, is more economical to use here because of its lower price. Even when this price will be raised considerably by the heightened summer demand.

There are innumerable substitutes for gasoline—any hydro-carbon will do the work—but not a single one has been found as practicable and economical as the fuel in general use today. Chemists of the United States bureau of mines in Washington are testing out numerous forms of hydro-carbons for motor use, and so are engineers of private automobile manufacturing firms.

Anti-Knock Found

What they have found so far has been an anti-knock compound which increases the efficiency of the gasoline now in use. Engines are being tested in connection with this fuel mixture, so as to produce certain changes in their construction that will make for better driving and get more mileage out of the gasoline consumed.

Even this anti-knock compound is not yet ready for use. Eventually it will be added to every gallon of gasoline put into the tank, but the motorist would not as yet economize by using it. Its cost is high, because it is hard to get.

Outside of this anti-knock compound, no hydro-carbon has been found to replace gasoline as more beneficial and economical. Many other substitutes may be foisted on the driving public, but the wise driver will not be fooled.

REBOUND IS CHECKED

Not only is the first shock from a jolt checked by this form of shock absorber for a popular small car, but an auxiliary spring catches the car on the rebound and checks that shock. It is called a Double Shock absorber.

CAN'T LOSE YOUR WAY

Motorists going through Wisconsin couldn't lose their way if they tried. The roads are clearly marked with every bit of information the stranger might need. Even detours are marked so clearly that the motorist knows exactly where he is at all times. Above is a typical detour sign in Wisconsin, giving complete information about the temporary turn in the road.

INTERESTING TALK ON HEAT REGULATION

George V. Velle, representative of the American Stove company, gave an instructive and interesting talk on heat regulation to members of the Gas Meeters at the regular monthly meeting held last evening at the School street office of the gas company.

The Gas Meeters is an organization of service men, salesmen and jobbers of the Lowell Gas company. George Fisher gave a talk on the 1923 sales campaign of the company.

ROGER SIMPSON BUYS PLUNKETT PROPERTY

The old Plunkett property at the corner of Floyd and Central streets, consisting of two old buildings and 8443 square feet of land, has been sold to Roger Simpson of this city, who intends to erect a modern block on the site. This property has been in the possession of the Plunkett family for over 35 years and was part of the estate of the late Dr. Francis Plunkett. The sale was made in behalf of the heirs, Mary A. Plunkett and her two children, Frances B. and Dr. Harold Plunkett.

LOWELL MAN FINED IN SUPERIOR COURT

A fine of $225 was imposed on Peter Sarros of 441 Market street, this city, in the superior court yesterday when he was found guilty of illegally keeping intoxicating liquor. Sarros was arrested here on March 3, found guilty in the district court and ordered to pay a fine of $20. He appealed and the case went to the superior court, where disposition, as stated above, took place.

STRENGTH AND SAFETY IN THE BODY OF STEEL

If you could see the main body structure of Dodge Brothers Business Coupe before the enamel is baked on, and before the interior is furnished, you would be profoundly impressed by its strength.

You would see that every panel, every pillar, and every rib is steel—that even the door sills and window mouldings are steel.

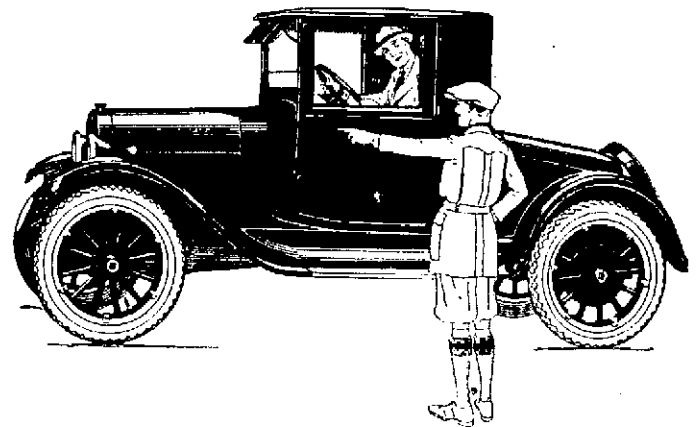

You would see that all of these parts and sections are electrically welded together into one staunch steel body, with no bolts or rivets to work loose, nothing to rattle or squeak or warp.

And you would realize that, like the all-steel Pullman coach, this unique construction—originated by Dodge Brothers for this car—represents the last word in protection to passengers—the ultimate achievement in closed car sturdiness.

Point Blank: will you try Royal Cords this year?

WHETHER it's the tire business or some other business—wherever there's lost motion someone has to foot the bill.

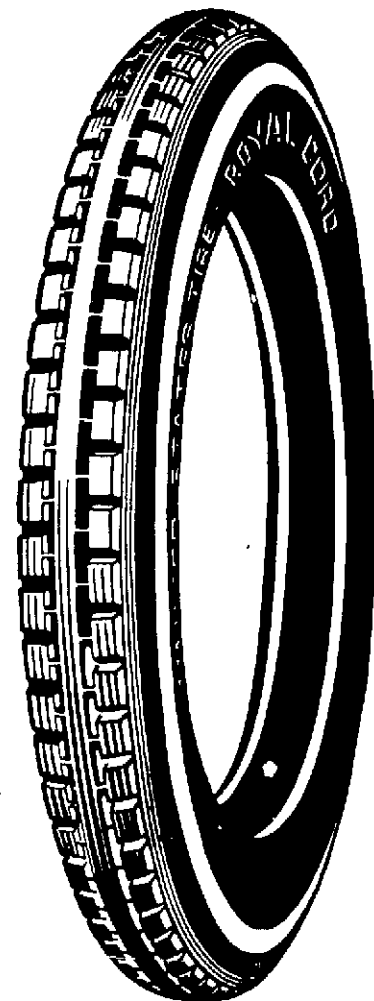

Nothing pays more than being simple and keeping simple.

Give people the best money's worth—and forget pretensions.

This works. So much so that there is confident expectation of a million new users of U.S. Royal Cords in 1923.

New car-owners, who have never bought tires before.

And the very sophisticated ones, too, who know all the ins and outs of the "tire market."

The makers of U.S. Royal Cords are in possession of lots of facts which compare their tire with tires in general.

But the Royal Cord policy is against campaigning exceptional mileages—even though U.S. Tires do deliver them.

The makers of Royal Cords do not sell by "big discounts" and other unsound practices, either.

The good, clean value of a Royal Cord is its own inducement.

Royal Cords reach out for new friends on this basis alone.

They simply ask you to try Royal Cords this year.

One million new users will say this year: "Royal Cords!"

PATRIOTS DAY

Tomorrow, Patriots day, will commemorate two very important events in American history. The first, the battle of Lexington on April 19, 1775, when the "Minute Men" of Massachusetts rushed from their homes to meet the advancing foe and engaged in the first battle of the Revolution in which was fired "the shot heard round the world." The other historic event was the attack made upon the Sixth Regiment in passing through Baltimore on April 19, 1861, and in which three Lowell men, Luther Ladd, Addison O. Whitney and Charles A. Taylor, together with Sumner H. Needham of Lawrence, won undying fame as the proto-martyrs of the Civil war.

The spirit of patriotism displayed at the battle of Lexington was the spirit that carried the American forces through the dark days of the Revolution which terminated in the complete independence of this republic with the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown on October 19, 1781, and it was the same spirit that fired the soldiers of the old Sixth regiment when attacked by a mob on the streets of Baltimore while on their way across the city to get a train for Washington.

The three Lowell martyrs were members of Company D that went out with the old Sixth regiment under Colonel Edward F. Jones to defend Washington, then threatened by the Southern enemy. Not only were the Lowell companies the first to give martyrs to the Union cause, but they were the first to respond to the call of Lincoln for volunteers.

The sacrifices of the Civil war were terrific, and while the Baltimore martyrs attained distinction as being the first to fall in the cause of Union, yet they did no more than did hundreds of others of Lowell men during the long struggle that ended with the surrender of Lee at Appomattox on April 9, 1865.

Lowell takes pride in honoring the memory of these men and of the other heroes who made the supreme sacrifice in the war that saved the union and abolished slavery and equally the men who laid down their lives in the service of the country in the Spanish and World wars.

WHERE MASSACHUSETTS LEADS

That is a very interesting program planned by the Massachusetts Society of Washington D. C. for May 3, 4 and 5 when it will plant a row of forty trees on the Lincoln Memorial Reservation forming an avenue hereafter to be known as the Massachusetts avenue memorial trees. It is a nice idea and patriotic and the society is relying upon the officials of the Day State cities to make the event more impressive by their numbers and dignity. In this matter, the Massachusetts society is the leader in this movement and other states are likely to follow in the spring of next year.

Already Mrs. Harding has planted on the reservation a tree to be known as the Armistice Elm and space is assigned to the foreign governments who will plant trees over an area to be known as the Allied governments' avenue of memorial trees.

The planting of the trees will be made a gala event and the program arranged for the occasion will furnish a pleasant entertainment for those who attend.

THE "OLD SIXTH"

The Sun acknowledges a letter inviting a representative of this paper to attend the coming convention of surviving veterans of the old Sixth Massachusetts Regiment association, to be held in Memorial hall, this city, on Patriots day.

Heading the day's proceedings and busily arranging many of the details, is the secretary of the association, Capt. Joseph N. Jones of Lawrence, now 88 years old, who has been in Lowell during the past week or more, making a personal effort to round up all of the members of the historic association and inform them of the coming Lowell reunion.

This venerable, genial, active, earnest worker and attached to numerous regimental associations well known throughout New England has succeeded in locating a well remembered comrade, Col. Albert Pindar, one of the oldest members of the Sixth Associates. Col. Pindar was the second man to enlist when the Lincoln call came for volunteers in 1861.

We trust the annual reunion of the former wearers of the blue who fought for the preservation of the Union, will be a memorable one in every respect and that the energetic work of sounding the clarion call for assembly in Memorial hall on Thursday will bring out each and every survivor of this grand old fighting command that brought such fame to Lowell and to Massachusetts.

AN AMERICAN MAYOR

Mayor Edwin F. Leonard of Springfield, Mass., will not allow the Ku Klux Klan to hold a proposed "convention" in that city if he can prevent it.

The Springfield mayor's declaration was in response to an inquiry as to his attitude toward the Ku Klux Klan and his plans to hold a so-called "monster" convention in Springfield some time next month. Far from co-operating with the "high officials" of the Klan, Mr. Leonard is at a central point in this state, Mayor Leonard states that he will do all in his power to oppose the proposed meeting. Even an open-air meeting will be denounced by the stout-hearted Springfield executive, who declares that he is opposed to all such "un-American" doings.

The "Klans" are said to have been active in or near Springfield for some time; but all efforts to obtain the use of public buildings in that city have been in vain.

We congratulate Mayor Leonard for his firm and unalterable position in dealing with an organization whose first principles would undo the teachings of Abraham Lincoln.

RAILROADS VS TRUCKS

Between the railroads and the big motor trucks there is open war. The railroads claim that the trucks as freight carriers are subsidized by being granted the free use of the highways, whereas the railroads must purchase and maintain their right of way at great expense. It was the New York and New Haven railroad that issued a wall against the trucks because in its last report it showed a deficit of $5,000,000. An instance is cited of a truck freight line between Springfield and New York in which the trucks have the free use of the highways but are said to do the road more damage than would a hundred passenger automobiles for every heavily laden truck.

This opposition to the trucking system is the result of the competition offered against the railroads in the Great minds, like heaven, are pleased in doing good, though the ungrateful subjects of their favors are barren in return.—Howe.

The Mean Thing

He was boring her to death, when in came the dog. "Ah, the dear dog," he said. "Have you taught him any new tricks since I was here last?" "Yes," she said sweetly. "If you whistle he'll bring your hat."

Tough Customer

"You know those gloves I bought the other day?" began the customer. "You said they'd last me two years." "Yes, ma'am," replied the saleswoman. "Well, I've lost them," said the customer. "What are you going to do about it?"

Where He Got It

Wandering into a burlesque house, a critic spent some minutes in disapproving contemplation of a lively skit. The skit was based on the familiar theme of twin brothers. There were two pairs of them. Complications due to mistaken identity bubbled up every moment and there was plenty of rough stuff. The author came around and the critic proceeded to read him a lecture, concluding by demanding: "Now, where did you call this skit a 'play'?" "I lifted it bodily from Shakespeare," replied the author quietly. "This is merely a condensed version of the 'Comedy of Errors'."

Wanted to Be Sure

Jefferson Boyce enjoyed a local reputation as an eater of no mean dimension, and on numerous occasions had won honors on the local beauty and endurance. One day a friend offered to bet that he could not do so dough-dish as the others. Never tested his ability on dough-dish, he said. "I'll just take a chance to the extent of $5." Slakes were put up and the contest was scheduled to take place at Peter's Oyster. Boyce had his chance. About a clock Jeff hunted up his challenger. "Say, you don't want to make that bet?" he queried. "Huh! You must think you're a champion!" "That's what I have," rejoined Jeff. "I've just got through making a test."

She Convinced Him

He was a canvasser in the cheap musical instrument line and was not easily discouraged. As he knocked at a door he remembered that he had called before and had been refused. "No," "O," remarked the lady of the house. "It's you again, is it? Come in!" He hesitated for a moment, then he entered and he was ushered into a room full of howling children, who redoubled their efforts at the sight of a stranger. The canvasser turned to find the door locked behind him. The woman went on with her washing and an hour later she opened the door. "Now," she remarked sweetly, "if you don't feel convinced, I'll require more music in the house you might call again." The man has not been seen in that street since.

Capital Jokes

W. J. McCormick, U. S. representative at large from Montana, tells this as his favorite story: Charges of corruption by both sides in a certain election contest, and among the witnesses called by a congressional committee hearing the case were a colored man named Rastus. "Did anybody offer you money for your vote?" asked the chairman. "Yes, sah, a man offered me five dollars to vote for Mista Robinson, a republican." "Did you take it?" "Yes, sah, and then another man give me five dollars to vote for Mista Harkins, the democrat." "Did you take it?" "Yes, sah, and then a third man give me five dollars to vote for the republican. Now did you vote?" "Well, sah, I figured that the republican was the best of the two, so I voted straight republican."

Fortress

I have builded in my heart a mighty castle Where vandals feet can never enter in. Where the storm is thick and deep enough to drown the bravest of men. To keep from me life's never ceasing din.

Inside, the walls are hung in dim-hued beauty, With tapestry that's worked from there kindness lights the lamps along the mantling; Lamps made of lovely things my soul has wrought.

Peace floods the place—peace like a golden silence—And music filters faintly through its heart; There is a great chair that was brought by conquest Whorls! I rest me when I draw apart.

And love hides there, the king of all—the master: He fills the rooms with warmth; for ever best. He guards me safely through the end—less conflict—And makes a firm foundation for the rest.

So now I have grown bigger, better, wiser Than I have ever been in life before; For when I meet the things that gail and fret me I just go in my heart, and close the door—By Joseph Andrew Gahagan in "Contemporary Verse" for April.

LICENSES GRANTED FOR MIDWAY SHOWS

Petitions for licenses to conduct midway shows on the Lakewood avenue show grounds were granted the California and Bay State shows by the license commission in regular session last night. Among the demonstrators were Rev. Joseph L. Ladd, pastor of St. Klamath church located near the grounds, and several local theatre managers.

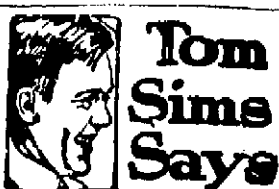

The Bay State show will make its appearance on April 25 and will run until May 4, while the California show come here May 21 and leave May 26. A portion of the funds derived from these shows will be donated to the children's home fund, Daniel Coss-grove, chairman.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

WJZ, the broadcasting station at Newark, N. J., with which local radio fans are familiar, will not broadcast any more copyrighted music. Royalties of $200 to $500 apiece are demanded by the authors, composers and publishers who own the copyrights. They organized recently, alarmed because radio is cutting down their sales of sheet music and phonograph records.

WJZ will now broadcast the old-time stuff. It is very popular—judging from the way it brings down the house in vaudeville. WJZ's action probably is the beginning of the end of radio jazz.

It is only once in a great while that officers of a public utility corporation receive commendation from the public, although they often receive just the opposite. Suppl. "Tommy" Sayers of the street railway company has a letter, though, that he seriously considers having framed. It is from none other than Stephen Kearney, city engineer, and he conveys his thanks to street railway officials and men for the great service which they continued to give on the line on which he lives during one of the worst winters in the history of the city. The letter, coming as it does from one familiar with the streets and the problem of clearing streets, is especially welcome and was appreciated as a rarity by the street railway officials.

A negro, caught picking a stenographer's pocket on an elevated train in New York city, is arrested. Cries of "Get a rope!" and "String him up!" are heard from the crowd. It takes several squadrons of police reserves to keep the crowd from lynching him, although a white person caught at the same act would have aroused no such fire. Along not one person in the crowd would have thought of interfering at all. The mob spirit is contagious, temporary insanity quickly becomes epidemic. That is why a nation does childish ridiculous things when at war.

Surgeons had to operate on Edward Higgins of another city for hernia. They didn't care to risk his heart by putting him to sleep with ether. So they hooked a headset on about his ears and a radio concert from WJZ kept his mind off the operation until it was over. Pain gets worse when we concentrate our attention on it. This is a new use for radio, but it is not likely to gain wide endorsement as an anesthetic.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
ONE TRAVELER

I speak to nobody, nobody, nobody,
And nobody speaks to me;
For how can you know what kind of folks
These traveling folks may be?
They might be barbers, or thieves and crooks
Whose business is burglary
So I speak to nobody, nobody, nobody,
And nobody speaks to me!

The sociable people I always smile
Whenever they speak to me,
So I sit and read and smoke and yawn
In my own society;
A bally nuisance, to run about
On trains or on ships at sea,
For I speak to nobody, nobody, nobody,
And nobody speaks to me.

Ho hum, I'm fearfully tired of myself
And the scenery that I see,
But one must maintain one's proper place
In human society,
One can't take chances of meeting those
Of humble or low degree,
So I speak to nobody, nobody, nobody,
And nobody speaks to me.

COUNCIL VOTES TO PASS $30,000 ORDER FOR STREET WIDENING OVER MAYOR'S VETO

During its discussion of routine city matters last night the city council unanimously voted to pass the $30,000 Hall and Alken street widening order over the veto of Mayor John J. Donovan.

In taking this action it was explained that the matter has been investigated since the order first was introduced and although the results sought may be attained in a different way, it is not believed another order is necessary. The council was in perfect accord in this contention and a unanimous vote followed.

The meeting developed strenuous opposition on the part of several hundred residents of the Highlands to a proposed garage in Westford street near Wilder street and after hearing the arguments of the opponents the request of the petitioner, Adelard Coutu, was given leave to withdraw.

Included in several claims presented and referred to the city solicitor were ones from Peter P. McManmon and Hugh Maguire, sergeants of police, asking for back pay, respectively in the amounts of $558.65 and $581.05.

The meeting was called to order at 8:15 o'clock. The roll was called by Assistant City Clerk William A. McCarthy.

There were four remonstrants to a petition of the N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. for a pole location in Cady street. It was claimed the sidewalk at that point is only three feet in width.

Other routine petitions were referred to the board of public service. The next matter called was the petition of Adelard Coutu for a garage license at 451 Westford street.

A communication addressed to the council by remonstrants contained ten or more signatures of residents and property owners in that general neighborhood.

William A. Hogan, Esq., representing the same act would have aroused no such fire. Along not one person in the crowd would have thought of interfering at all. The mob spirit is contagious, temporary insanity quickly becomes epidemic. That is why a nation does childish ridiculous things when at war.

INTERESTING ADDRESS BY TEXTILE SCHOOL PRESIDENT BEFORE MILL OVERSEERS

"The educated man of today, is one who can make his job a better one, and who can adapt himself to changing conditions," asserted President C. H. Eames of the Lowell Textile school, addressing an audience of mill overseers, in Liberty hall last night. The educated man should not be confused with the learned type of man, the individual who is merely theoretical in his knowledge.

Herbert O. Stetson, industrial service secretary of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, presided as chairman of the meeting, which was held under the auspices of the associated industries and in charge of Andrew A. McCarthy, field secretary. The lecture, the last of a series of seven was well attended. Mr. Stetson, speaking to the people in the gathering before President Eames took the floor, asked those present what they would like in the matter of lectures, next year. It was decided to continue these talks, which are a great aid to the men in the mills because of the fact that the talks have disclosed some of the problems confronting the men higher up.

President Eames' Address

Mr. Eames speaking on "How can a man make his job a better one?" said: "This subject coming as it does at the close of this series of lectures is intended to sum up the thoughts expressed by the previous speakers and to point the way in which the objects of improving the industry and the individual may be accomplished."

In attempting to answer this question we may fairly ask, "Yankee fashion, two other questions: Are we concerned with the job irrespective of the occupant, which means a consideration of the material factors that enter into the job? Are we concerned with the personal efficiency of the one occupying the job whatever it may be, which means individual growth and advancement to the higher and better paid job?"

Self preservation is the main thought of every man and advancement through legitimate and justifiable means should be the ambition of all.

With the single exception of one, "Cotton and its Uses," all of the addresses have dealt with the relation of the individual to his job. It would classify them about as follows:

Relation of the individual to physical preservation.

Relation of the individual to his surroundings.

Relation of the individual to the financial success of the mill.

These are intended to acquaint us with some of the factors of our daily job that are considered of great moment compared with the quantity and quality of production.

It is the result of daily routine in the same job that our vision becomes short and restricted. We lose sight of other conditions, the study of which may help to not only improve our job, but advance ourselves. Are we not all of us members of the awkward squad in whom the impatient sergeant commands: "Come out here and look at particularly that you may thoroughly yourself." In order to make our job a better job should we not come out of ourselves and look or rather study ourselves to see wherein we may add to our skill and knowledge that improvement and advancement may be attained.

If we obey the sergeant's command and go out of the squad we shall doubtless see why we are awkward in the sense that we are not working in unison with the others (our associates). This may be due to lack of knowledge of the requirements of our job or the ignorance of the limitations of the other fellow and his job. We should know more thoroughly than we do the problems that confront the department, selling house and merchant. The producer aiming to meet the needs of the manufacturer, the manufacturer aiming to meet the requirements of the consuming public as reflected through the merchant and wholesaler will help to produce conditions that are both peaceful and profitable. This ideal condition spells co-operation through a greater acquisition of knowledge and development that we understand to be education.

Educated Employee

In so far as an industry is operated by educated employees will it approach the goal of success. The meaning attached to education here is the broadest and one given by a recent speaker in this city, when he indicated that the true meaning of an educated person was in terms of his ability to adapt himself to changing conditions and to co-operate with his associates in the general advancement of mankind. This point of view makes a distinction between a learned man who in spite of his learning is unable to be of value to his fellowman and the intelligent man who because of ability in mind and personality is a great factor in the advancement of society.

It is false to assume that all who attended these lectures are in accord with this belief, otherwise they would not be interested in these subjects, which are to aid the educated man. Making our job a better job requires that we become educated individuals able to adapt ourselves to changing conditions as they arise, and we must seek every means of so preparing ourselves that we can meet the new requirements. Aside from the personal factor which gives us the desire to improve our job is the necessity of knowledge of the technique of our daily work. This should not be confined to the limited requirements of our specific job but should extend into all departments to which our job is in any way related.

Fortunately there are through systematic forms of education, many institutions where the technique of our jobs can be acquired. In this city there are a number of such institutions established for this purpose and I wish to take you by means of lantern slides and moving picture film through one of these institutions, that you may in a measure, see its equipment and more particularly that you may thoroughly

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

sense the primary object of this institution to aid in the development of educated employees within the textile and allied industries. Again the word "educated" is here used in the same sense as before and applies to everyone whatever his position or job may be.

Textile School Institution

The instruction at the Lowell Textile school has been so systematized that two schools have been established.

One, the evening school, that provides courses for those who are at work in the day and desire to study the technique of their daily job and to know about other jobs to which their own is related. This school offers broad and extended courses requiring several years to complete and also short courses requiring only a single year to finish.

The other school, the day school, offers broad and complete courses for those who have had the equivalent of a good high school training and who can devote three or four years to such educational training that they may enter the textile industry with a mental equipment that should assure them some place where they may enrich the industry. The character of the courses in these day classes has been re-evaluated of such a grade that the school is now classified with the colleges and technical schools of this country and will recognize the actors as they have been members of the instructing staff at the school for many years.

It is hoped that back of the attempt to interest you this evening in this particular institution which forms such a vital part of the industry in this city and state, that you will see the main object which is to bring before you the importance of more thorough, advanced, and broader training for those who are in the industry and for those who are planning to enter it, to the end that this important industry in this section of the country may play its part as it has in the past and that it may play its part to the advancement of Massachusetts and the New England states. This can be done, in my opinion, only by developing more intelligent and more highly trained employees in all departments of the industry. The Lowell Textile school and the other agents that have arranged for this series of meetings trust that you have gleaned this main purpose and that you will co-operate in the future to the utmost, not only in your daily work and with the other departments with which you are associated, but that you may encourage by your presence and your personal interest the course of similar lectures which are contemplated for next season.

Object of the Film

The object of preparing this film was to display it through the western states, especially in those that are known as the wool growing states of this country. This was for the purpose of informing the farmers and wool growers concerning the processes of manufacturing woolen and worsted goods that they might prepare their wool that it could be used to best advantage by the manufacturers. The federal government made a second film which is used here tonight, and gave it to the school. Doubtless many here

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND
"The Dangerous Age" is a picture that has real merit to it. See it for the last time today at The Strand. Then there is Charles Ray in one of his most entertaining comedy dramas, called "Allan Julius Caesar." The real of the bill is in keeping with the high standard established by the features.

We recommend the offering to all lovers of good picture programs. Before you hurry for money, go and see the showing of the bill, which will be shown during the last three days of the week, starting with Monday on Thursday, Betty Blythe, with Montague Love and a competent cast, give a wonderfully good presentation in it. The dramatic development is excellent, and the story is convincing. Dorothy Farnum wrote the story especially for Betty Blythe. It gives the star opportunity to wear some of her gorgeous costumes. Dushin Farnum in "Three Who Paid" will be the other feature, and this, too, will surely appeal to the majority. It is a great story, filled with action and dramatic situations, and has some excellent photography to make it

RIALTO THEATRE
The same success which characterized the showing of "The Third Alarm" at the Rialto theatre on Sunday and Monday of this week was again in evidence yesterday afternoon and last night when the picture enjoyed the third day of its week's showing. The picture is one of the most sensational of the entire season and is filled with thrilling scenes. The rescue of a girl from the top floor of a burning building is one of the best that has ever been affected. Don't fail to see it before Saturday.

H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
"A Dress Rehearsal" which is a clever travesty on the way things sometimes happen in the theatre, is the laugh-provoking feature at the H. F. Keith theatre, this week. George Choos presents it in a specially good manner, with the aid of a company which plays it very seriously. Janet of France, otherwise Janet Marline, in "A Little Touch of Paris," gives a specially entrancing exhibition, aided and abetted by Charles Humphreys. The act is of the "different" type in every particular. The remainder of the bill holds bright spots, noteworthy among them being O'Brien & White, in "The Gadabouts," Flaherty & Stoning, Vaudeville Tid-Bits; Daly and Berlew

Whirlwind Dancers and Al Striker, a most unusual contortionist.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
Local theatrical critics have their unanimous approval of "Sweet Innisfallen" playing at the Lowell Opera House this week. This play which is woven around an appealing story laid in the rustic beauty of old Ireland, is wonderfully captivating. Bernard Daly, the romantic tenor who knows how to sing the world famous folk songs as they should be sung, was given a real ovation for his masterly acting in the part of the good hearted Irish lad, Edith Stuckton, the former Vitagraph star, who will be with the company for the rest of the season, was charming in the role of Nora Shannon. She has the rare quality known as personal magnetism, and she knows how to use her charming voice to get the best results. The work of shows that this well known member of the Lutteringer stock company is one of the most versatile actors that have played in Lowell for some time. The play is excellent throughout and its success so far has been enormous.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "Jazzmania," starring Mae Murray. One of the most remarkable coincidences of the time was a dual resemblance by which a returning veteran is mistaken for one of his buddies who has gone "west," furnishes the situation upon which is founded the stirring developments in "Sonny," the third First National attraction starring Richard Barthelmess, which will be shown at the Merrimack Square theatre for three days commencing Thursday.
"Sonny" is a dramatic story of motherless manhood. It goes straight to the heart and equals "Tolani David" in poignancy.
The other feature for the week-end is the screen adaptation of the big stage hit, "Enter Madame," starring Clara Kimball Young in one of the best productions in which this popular and versatile star has ever appeared. The photoplay gives the spectator an intimate view into an operator's life at home.

CROWN THEATRE
Timeliness is said to be the leading feature of "The World's Applause," a William de Mille Paramount production, appearing today and tomorrow at the Crown theatre. Public interest has been aroused over recent instances of prominent outstanding public persons who have found fame as they as day when scandal came. A view of the picture will show how closely related the plot of the production is with these recent happenings. Bebe Daniels and Lewis Stone have the featured roles.

Blind Russian Violinist Who Played His Way Into America

Abraham Hattowitsch, blind Russian violinist, engaged to appear at the Lowell Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday evening, April 24, actually played his way into America as an immigrant while standing in an immigration pen at San Francisco. He had been examined and found to be blind. "He must go back" was the sentence that crushed down upon him and seemed to blight and kill all his hopes. Then he took his violin from its battered case, lovingly fingered it and setting it beneath his chin, began the beautiful Tschalkowski serenade, "Who is that?" asked immigration Commissioner Edward White, seated in his office. "A young blind Russian who must be deported," he was told. The commissioner ordered the immigrant to be brought before him and when Hattowitsch appeared he was asked to play the serenade again. Dimly he seemed to realize that in his music lay his only hope for admission. There was no applause when his bow stopped and the commissioner thanked him and ordered him to return to the pen. In another room were the members of the examining board and Commissioner White went before them with the remarkable request that they reconsider their decision. They did and the boy was admitted. Today he is the latest Russian sensation of the violin and Lowell music lovers will be given an opportunity to hear him on the evening of the 24th. Tickets now are on sale at Steinert's.

Bureau Chief Interprets Essay Contest Subject for High Schools

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—In response to numerous requests for an interpretation of the words "highway transport," the mammoth new industry that has grown up since the advent of the automobile, Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads, has prepared a definition for the use of students participating in the annual high school essay contest conducted by the highway education board.

The subject of the essays is to be written in the context of this year, in which thousands of high school students are trying to win a $4000 scholarship, is "The Influence of Highway Transport Upon the Religious Life of My Community," and according to letters, students throughout the country have not always been clear as to the meaning of the words "highway transport." Mr. MacDonald's definition is therefore in answer to these requests.

"Highway transport, or highway transportation," says Mr. MacDonald, "deals with the movement of persons and things over the highways, and has to do with the instruments of transportation, the highway and the vehicle, as well as the services rendered by these transportation instruments."

This interpretation is being supplied all high schools in an effort to give students the clearest understanding of the subject on which essays are to be written.

Highway transport, therefore, embraces not only the automobile and the motor truck, but implies the use of these vehicles for the transportation of passengers and commodities over the roads. The contact of the two, the vehicle and the road, constitutes highway transport. Its growth has closely paralleled the development of the automobile industry, and in its entirety it today represents an investment of billions of dollars.

Many schools have inquired what is meant by the words "religious life," and the words "my community." In response to these requests the board has said that "religious life" may be taken to mean not only church attendance but the general moral tone of a community or locality as well. The student may regard the phrase "my community," says the board, as his immediate locality, his county or township, or even the state.

The unique nature of the subject of the contest has provoked an unusual amount of study and discussion. Never before have the relation of transportation and religion been so seriously considered. The requests for an interpretation are taken to mean the most widespread interest in the contest. Letters from students, principals and superintendents of schools

WINNER IN LOWELL DAY ESSAY CONTEST

Below is printed the prize-winning essay of John S. McGowan, of the Charles W. Morse school, who was awarded the gold Everhart pencil by the judges of the chamber of commerce Lowell day essay on the subject: "How Can We Make Our Streets Safe for School Children?" The special prize essay by Miss Anna Heath of St. Michael's school was published in this paper about a week ago and it is the intention of The Star to continue publication of the individual compositions until the list is completed. Master McGowan's essay: How can we make our streets safe for school children is a question which is asked by many persons in authority throughout the municipalities of our commonwealth today. Accidents continue to increase despite the best efforts of our traffic directors, public safety officers and public utility commissioners and will continue to increase until the legislature enacts some law to control the actions of the reckless automobile driver. The remedy under existing conditions and in fact under all circumstances seems to depend on due care as all things depend on common sense. As children cannot be expected to exercise the latter the duty naturally devolves on older minds to protect the pupils from bodily injury going to and returning from school. It is therefore the imperative duty of parents to inculcate into the minds of children the danger lurking in the paths of automobiles, street cars and other vehicles of high speed. The automobile has and always will continue to have a fas-

Pity Little Babies Helpless to Resist Danger

ONE baby out of every seven dies needlessly. It is a crime against civilization. The miracle is that so many babies manage to live. Their tiny bodies are daily exposed to countless dangers.

Strangers from insanitary homes come near them. Whenever they are given an airing, street dust settles on their hands and faces.

That dust is not honest, harmless soil. In it are countless foes to health—the germs of serious disease. Yet baby hands carry it into mouth and eyes!

Dust is Dangerous

The great scientific organizations of America know what that dirt means to your baby. Years of study disclosed its real nature. They plead with thoughtful mothers to fight its dread menace.

Health authorities tell you that real cleanliness is the best protection. Of course you bathe your baby frequently. But is it the most thorough cleanliness possible?

One soap is famous as the health soap, because it safeguards against disease. It is called Lifebuoy.

The world's greatest soapmakers perfected it.

The Health Element

Lifebuoy contains the finest cleansing oils known. Simply as soap, you could not buy a blander, better toilet soap for baby. But Lifebuoy also has a wonderful health element blended in it. It makes possible the complete cleanliness necessary for baby's health.

Lifebuoy purifies and protects. Lifebuoy safeguards your baby's delicate skin.

Give the whole family the benefit of Lifebuoy's penetrating, protecting lather. Put a cake at every place where there is running water.

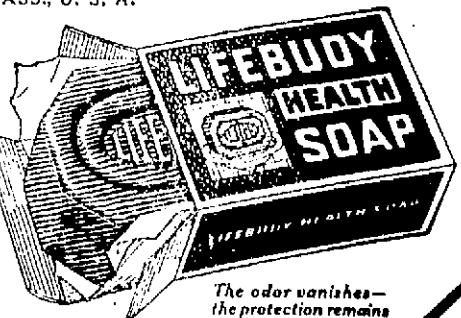

How men revel in Lifebuoy's clean copious lather! And how healthy and radiant it makes their skin!

Pure, unbleached palm-fruit oil is red. So Lifebuoy is RED. Coconut oil makes rich, creamy lather. The health element gives Lifebuoy its pungent, healthful odor.

"Most of my patients are slowly poisoning themselves"

A prominent physician was speaking. "It is always amazing to me," he said, "to discover how many of my patients are slowly poisoning themselves with constipation—people who never realize that they are constipated at all."

Everyone knows that the "waste" which clogs the intestines must be removed regularly. If not—it begins to generate deadly poisons that escape into the blood and flood your whole system.

Yet nowadays there are fewer and fewer people who do not suffer from constipation. Our concentrated modern diet lets the intestinal muscles get soft and flabby. They fail to remove the waste completely—a poisonous residue is left in the intestines. Then, little by little, we begin to suffer from all the ills of constipation—premature age, loss of appetite and vitality, skin disorders, indigestion, etc.

Restoring thousands of sufferers to perfect normal health

Medical science knows that drugs and cathartics are useless in getting rid of the trouble—indeed, they actually weaken the intestinal muscles and make matters worse.

That is why so many physicians and hospitals are prescribing Fleischmann's Yeast today. Every cake consists of millions of tiny living plants, which soften and increase the bulk of the waste matter, and gently encourage even the weakest muscles to act. Every such action gives the muscles normal, natural exercise—something that violent cathartics and purges can never do—and so gradually trains them back to a healthy, active state.

Hundreds of thousands of men and women are finding in Fleischmann's Yeast the key to freedom from all the evils of constipation. They are learning that a body freed from poisons means such health and vigor as they have never known.

Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active, and that it loses its laxative effect when these cells are "killed" and dried.

Fleischmann's Yeast, like any other food must be eaten regularly, to secure results. Eat two or three cakes a day—plain, or dissolved in water, milk or fruit juices—preferably half an hour before a meal, or the last thing at night. Get several cakes at a time—they will keep several days in a cool, dry place. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast! All grocers have it.

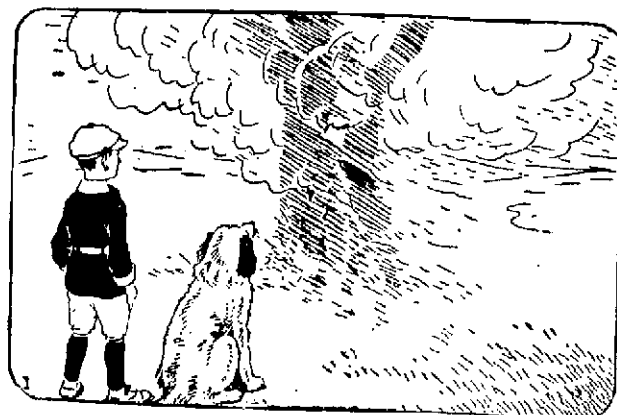

Send for free booklet, "The New Found Value of Fleischmann's Yeast in Building Health." The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

Jack Daw in Candy Land. Chapter 24.

"Now the white cyclone puffs seem to be getting darker and darker," shouted Jack. "This is the queerest windstorm I have ever seen." Gradually a portion of the space around Jack cleared up, but directly in front of him the darkening mass grew blacker and blacker.

In Birmingham, the access to Cheap coal and iron has made—The city stand a leader in The metal-working trade—

Then, suddenly, all the blowing stopped. Jack looked about him and noticed that the little band of Nut Puddles were missing. Also Caramel was nowhere to be seen. In fact all the scenery had changed. Jack sat still for a moment and then turned and gazed at what was left of the cyclone.

"Why," shouted Jack, "this cyclone has left the very same tree which I sat down beside to eat my box of candy." Then he found the candy box empty. And thus his adventure in Candy Land was over. Jack Daw's next adventure will be with Henry Moony, the mystery man of Miney Moo.

UNCLE SAM'S VOTERS

New Non-Profit Federation Organizes With Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 18.—Enlightened voters will rule public affairs and unenlightened voters will be misruled, recognized and controlled by demagogues. Recognition of this fact is the basis of a new organization for the development of enlightened and active voting at all elections.

Direct participation in governmental affairs by every citizen, old or young and without distinction of sex, is the object of Uncle Sam's voters, a national non-profit federation that has just been organized with headquarters in Washington, D. C. It is designed to aid in the solution of local, state, national and international problems by bringing the collective intelligence of the country to bear upon them. As a fundamental step in this process, the organization plans to establish throughout the United States, local assemblies based on the idea of the old-fashioned town meeting.

Governors of all the 48 states will be asked to serve on the advisory board, and representative citizens, men and women, from every walk of life, will round out that board to a total membership of 100. In addition to the present voters, special efforts will be made to reach young men and women approaching the voting age, and aliens approaching citizenship. The organization is pledged to visible and popular government and to the development of an enlightened electorate.

Samuel Adams, of Chicago, widely known as an editor of farm publications and as president of the American Agricultural Editors' association, has accepted the post of director general of Uncle Sam's voters. With him will be associated many other prominent Americans, including Ira Nelson Morris, who has resigned as United States minister to Sweden to become president of Uncle Sam's voters. James W. Good, formerly congressman from Iowa, and now a leading lawyer of Chicago is vice president; G. H. Wayland of Virginia, is secretary. The women are represented by Mary Lee Adams, vice president, and many other women of note will be on the advisory board.

"The World war has not only left tremendous problems," said Mr. Adams today, "but it has also, unfortunately, left a general apathy toward governmental affairs—a natural reaction, perhaps, from the zeal with which the government was supported during the war. But these very problems require constructive thought and effort more than any that have hitherto beset the country. Every citizen's effort is needed, and to stimulate popular participation in national affairs Uncle Sam's voters will revive the old-time town meeting as an effective force in modern life."

Future Never Brighter Than at Present, Says Brig.
Gen. Russell

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The opinion that the future of Haiti never was brighter than at present, is expressed by Brig. Gen. John H. Russell of the Marine Corps in a report to Secretary Hughes, submitted by him as the American high commissioner in Haiti. He has been serving in that capacity since March, 1922.

In his report, made public today by the state department, Gen. Russell declares that it is believed that a continuance of the present policy of cooperation with the Haitian government "can lead but to the development and progress of Haiti."

After reviewing the events in Haiti since his arrival there, Gen. Russell comments on the activities of the Marine Corps occupation force and makes this observation:

"During the period covered by this report the efficiency of these forces has been maintained at a high standard and in addition it has been indoctrinated with the purposes for which we are in Haiti and the necessity for the maintenance of the most cordial relations and co-operation in all dealings with the Haitians."

The remainder of the report, according to the report, "has been most efficiently handled during the past year, and as a result, it has been brought to a very high standard of excellence."

Both the public health and public works departments, Gen. Russell reports, have done excellent work, despite a shortage of funds.

"The words of Samuel Adams of Revolutionary days, spoken in 1772, are as applicable now as then: 'Let us converse together and open our minds freely to each other. Let every town assemble. Let associations and combinations be everywhere set up to consult and recover our just rights.'"

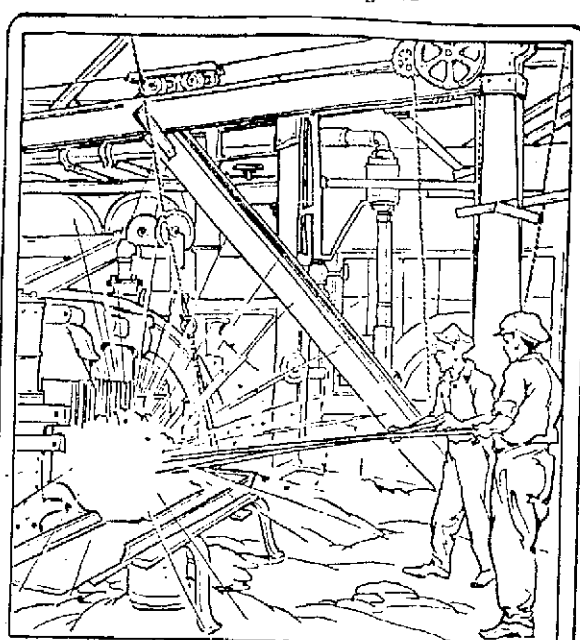

Organization work is already under way, and will be undertaken on a plan of national scope. Unqualified endorsement of the project has been received from public-spirited citizens of all political faiths.

Full particulars regarding this new citizenship movement can be secured by addressing Samuel Adams, Citizens Savings Bank building, Washington, D. C.

CONDITIONS IN HAITI AMERICAN DEFENSE SOCIETY NOT INVOLVED

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 18.—The name of the American Defense Society was unintentionally brought into the trial of William Z. Foster, charged with criminal syndicalism, as one of the organizations supposed to be supporting him, it was disclosed yesterday on examination of the stenographic record of the Foster trial.

Charles E. Gore, prosecuting attorney for Berrien county, who was questioning prospective jurors about a letter mailed to Berrien county voters by the American Civil Liberties union and labor defense council, inadvertently used the name of the American Defense Society instead of that of the latter organization.

The American Defense Society is a national organization of which the late President Roosevelt was one of the first leaders. The labor defense council was created by liberal and radical leaders after the arrest of Foster and other communists to raise money to defend them.

FLAYS THREE G. O. P. SENATORS

Elsberg Says Borah, Johnson and La Follette Should Leave Ranks of Party

Ought to Join Democrats
"Where They Belong,"
Says Republican Club Head

NEW YORK, April 18.—Senators Borah, Johnson and La Follette should leave the ranks of the republican party and join the democrats, "where they belong" Nathaniel A. Elsberg told a large audience last night after his reelection as president of the National Republican club. His attack on the three senators was heartily applauded, and none arose to the defense of the trio.

"I want to see the time, and that soon," he said, "when men who have been elected by republican votes and supported by republican newspapers and who style themselves republicans but who at every opportunity assail a republican president and cabinet, are thrown out of the republican party and over into the democratic party, where they belong. I have particular reference to Borah, La Follette and Johnson."

A report endorsing President Harding's advocacy of a world court of international justice, submitted by a sub-committee of the committee on national affairs was laid over for printing and distribution among all members.

AUTO ACCIDENTS AND COLLISIONS

Automobile accidents and collision cases are the present rule at the superior court here in Lowell. The case of Horace P. Snow of Boston, plaintiff, and Harry L. Stanley of Lowell, defendant, was opened in court this morning.

The plaintiff alleges that he was operating his automobile on Thordike street, traveling toward Gorham, and that he was run into by the defendant's five ton truck, operated by an agent. As a result of the impact with the truck, states Mr. Snow, he suffered personal injury necessitating hospital care, and his car was considerably damaged. The truck was loaded with five tons of coal and naturally suffered little damage as a result of the meeting with the automobile.

LOCAL WOMAN HONORED

Mrs. Costello Elected State
Branch Secretary of Women's Police Department

At an all-day conference for police women at the reformatory for women in Sherburne yesterday, Mrs. Matilda Costello of Lowell was elected secretary of the Massachusetts branch of the International Women's Police department, which was organized at yesterday's gathering for the purpose of bringing about a local organization.

Miss Emily Skilton, head of the Lowell department and Miss Emma De-Perce, an assistant in the office here, represented this city with Mrs. Costello at the conference. A feature of the day was a discussion between the delegates and about 140 women serving terms in the Sherburne institution. It was the first time at the reformatory that inmates met with the police and showed a willingness to co-operate. Attired in their white linen chapel dresses, the women marched into the Auditorium to the strains of music. The group was composed of female prisoners, who are women having a good behavior record and are soon to be released. Several testified that had they come into contact with the police women they would have benefited thereby.

Among the police women who spoke were Mrs. Jessie Hodder, Mrs. Robert Herrick, Mr. Herbert G. Parsons and Miss Mary Driscoll who presided at the meeting. Mrs. Abraham Van Wykloot of Washington, D. C., is president of the International association, and the officers of the Massachusetts branch, elected yesterday, are: President, Miss Mary Lathrop; treasurer, Miss Harriet Pierce; secretary, Mrs. Matilda Costello. The association will meet twice a year.

CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

He asked the court for another chance and said he would leave the city and go to New Hampshire if given the opportunity. A sentence of four months to the house of correction, suspended for a year, was imposed.

Keeping an unlicensed dog cost Ralph Parley $5. He said he did not think he was obliged to register the dog as it was only five months old. According to the statutes, three months is the time limit.

A charge of drunkenness against Ernest Landry was continued until April 28. His wife testified that he had been a habitual drunkard for the past two years and is a source of annoyance to her. Bonds were fixed at $300. John Corrigan pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was given three weeks to pay a fine of $35.

Illegal keeping charges against Eugene Champagne and Daniel W. Newell were continued to April 30 and May 2 respectively.

A sealed verdict for $200 in favor of the plaintiff, James J. Keenan of this city, against Arthur McIntosh, defendant, for damages resulting from a motor collision was opened in the superior court this morning. The automobile owned by Keenan and operated by an agent, is alleged to have been proceeding down one of the main highways of Lowell in a careful manner, when it was struck by the defendant's truck, a 1922 model, which was being handled by an agent. ## HE WAS AFRAID OF THE POLICE

While conversing with Officer Paul Spillane in Liberty square last evening, Officer Owen Conway was confronted with a mysterious looking individual in the person of John De Jesus who gave a fleeting look at the officers and then beat it with all haste toward Worthen street. Becoming suspicious, the officers gave chase, Officer Spillane stationing himself on a corner, while Officer Conway followed the runner from Worthen street through an alley on to Button, across the railroad tracks to Thordike and West Jackson streets, and then down Jackson street. The marathon ended near the Hamilton mill with Officer Conway the victor. Questioning his captive, the officer was told that the runaway was caused by fright and when a small knife was found in his pocket, he was booked at the police station as a suspicious person.

Appearing before Judge Knight this morning, De Jesus was ordered discharged, but not until the court had complimented Officer Conway for his alertness, saying that he was justified in bringing the defendant in under the circumstances.

MANSOUR IS IN THE TOILS AGAIN

George Mansour of this city who was scheduled to appear in the superior court in East Cambridge yesterday in answer to a charge of unlawfully keeping in violation of liquor laws, failed to show up in that court and was arrested by the Lowell police last night. He did not appear at the district court session this morning, but is being held for the superior court.

Mansour was arrested on March 10 for illegal keeping and in the district court he was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $150 and be committed to the house of correction for a term of two months. He appealed and was to have been heard in the superior court yesterday. In the interim between March 10 and April 15 Mansour was again arrested for illegal keeping and was released on $300 bonds pending his scheduled appearance in Cambridge. When he failed to comply with the appeal order, he was re-arrested yesterday afternoon and spent the night at the station.

CLEAN-UP DAYS NAMED IRISH REBELS HIDE IN CAVE

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of This Week Designated by Board

Tomorrow, Friday and Saturday have been designated by the board of public service as clean-up days and it is the hope of the board that every resident of Lowell will co-operate to make the city spotless. Co-operating with the board of public service the members of the board of health today issued a statement relative to the cleaning of the city in the form of an appeal for all residents of Lowell to do their utmost in exterminating the flies, and is as follows:

With the advent of spring and the approaching warm weather comes the breeding season for the disease bearing fly. There are many kinds of flies but the most important in this country is the common house fly. Among others may be mentioned the blue bottle fly, the green bottle fly, the stable fly, which is biting and blood-sucking, the native South African Tse Tse fly which causes the disease known as sleeping sickness of the tropics, the sand fly, the fruit fly, etc. In the north, the breeding season extends from May to October, while in the south it may begin as early as March. This insect has always been considered a menace to the public health and is known to transmit such diseases as typhoid fever, diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera and probably tuberculosis, diphtheria and scarlet fever.

Their number increases rapidly, for a fly develops in eight to ten days after birth and each female is capable of laying 100 or more eggs under the proper conditions of temperature, atmosphere, etc. These eggs are transformed into the larva or maggot stage within 12 hours. These larvae or maggots reach their maturity in from three to six days and leave the substance in which they are hatched, burrowing into the ground or traveling for several feet along the surface of the ground. A large proportion of the maggot occurs and it changes to a dark color known as the pupa stage. During this stage of development the insect attains its wings and other structures of a full grown fly and in about three days the adult fly breaks through and escapes.

It should be remembered that the eggs are generally deposited in latrines upon fresh horse manure, kitchen refuse, decayed vegetables, human excreta, and other animal matter or any other kind of organic filth. Moreover, it is well known that the common house flies may carry the bacteria or germs of disease upon their bodies, especially on their wings and hairy legs, from privies and other places where such agents abound.

Hence it is important that substances intended for human consumption should be protected from this pest. Solid food is contaminated by their crawling over it and liquids, by their drinking it or falling into it.

Measures to eradicate this pest should be directed first against its breeding places. Human excreta should be so disposed of that accessibility to flies is impossible. Of course in an organized community such as ours where public sewer disposal is had this is in a great measure eliminated. Garbage should be protected by being kept in covered containers and collected and disposed of properly.

Manure should be kept in properly constructed bins and removed at least every four days.

"Swat the Fly" campaigns should be started in season.

Dwellings, markets, hairdresses, etc. should always be carefully screened and food supplies should not be exposed unless they are protected by proper netting.

ONLY SIGN MISSING

It was reported to the police this morning that a Chandler automobile had been left standing on daylight street, near Gorham, since early last night, without lights or gasoline. The only means of identification was a card on which was written the name "Langley, South Boston." Investigation disclosed the fact that the car was left exposed on the street for sale. "For Sale" sign had been removed.

Desperate Band of Irregulars in Cave, 100 Feet From Top of Cliff

Holding Out Against Free
State Troops Since Last
Monday, Says Report

LONDON, April 18. (By the Associated Press.) Hidden in a cave 100 feet from the top of a cliff rising perpendicularly from the coast line near the Causeway north of Kerry, a desperate band of Irish republicans has been holding out against the Free State troops since Monday, says a dispatch to the Evening Star today.

The republicans are successfully guarding a precarious approach to the cave, a narrow path from the top of the cliff, down which even the venturesome Kerry goat has not the courage to descend. It seems improbable that the irregulars will be routed out so long as their food and water lasts. A jawing avalanche because the mouth of the cave awaits the intruder while making a false step in descending the path.

TO OPERATE ON DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

NEW YORK, April 18.—The principal financial and commodity markets of the country will operate on "daylight saving time" beginning Monday, April 23. The clocks where such time is observed, will be advanced the day before.

In New York city, the markets affected are the New York stock, consolidated corn, cotton, sugar and produce exchange. All of these open at 10 a. m. and close at 3 p. m., except coffee and sugar, which open at 10.30 and 10.45 a. m. respectively, but close with the rest.

Other large markets which will operate on the new schedule are the Chicago Board of Trade and the New Orleans cotton market.

SUDDEN DEATH OF PATRICK J. STACK

Patrick J. Stack, aged about 38 years, dropped dead while at his work at the Lawrence Mfg. Co., at about 10.30 o'clock, this morning. The ambulance was summoned and the body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers J. E. O'Donnell and Sons in Market street, where it was viewed by Assistant Medical Examiner Ailing.

Deceased made his home in Varian avenue, Tyngsboro, and had been employed at the Lawrence Mfg. Co. for a great many years. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Catherine (O'Donnell) Stack; three brothers, James in Ireland, Thomas and Maurice of this city; three sisters, Miss Sarah Stack and Mrs. Patrick Moriarty of this city, and Mrs. Annie Ash in Ireland. He was a devout attendant of St. Columba's church.

UNKNOWN MAN DIES AT HOSPITAL

Up to an early hour this afternoon, the body of an unknown, unidentified man, who was found in the Middlesex street depot shortly before 7 o'clock last night and who later died at the corporation hospital, was unclaimed. He was unconscious when picked up at the station and died without regaining consciousness. Two men, one bearing the name of Fred H. Lewis, City hospital, and the other Clin Laskey, Boston dispensary, March 19, age 54, were the only means of identification found, and from these it is believed that he lived in Boston. The police of that city have been notified.

CITY DEPARTMENTS EXCEED THEIR APPROPRIATIONS DURING FIRST THREE MONTHS OF YEAR

The quarterly appropriations statement issued today by the city auditor shows that some of the city departments have exceeded their appropriations during the first three months of the year, particularly the street department, which has expended the sum of $12,500.10 over its appropriation. Another large excess in expenditure is noted in the Vocational school department, the figures being $1,133.24. The isolation hospital has also an over-expenditure to its credit of $1,211.10.

In the case of the street department it was pointed out that the heavy winter storms were responsible for the big increase in expenses, but it is expected that this department will live within its appropriation for the remainder of the year. The deficit noted in the ash department amounts to $345.78 and this too was due to the fact that the department was hard hit by the storms and cold weather. For the Auditorium maintenance the appropriation was exceeded by $15.14, buildings department, $740.66; city clerk's, $217.74; city hall, $315.14; mothers with dependent children.

That political "blobs" represent the danger signals of the future, that they have a tendency to throttle the common good and elevate sectional desires and that New England today faces a crisis in her industrial life because of her remoteness from the places in which raw materials are found and the existence of a broken-down transportation system, were salient declarations made by Senator David I. Walsh this noon, while addressing 350 members of the chamber of commerce and Lowell Advertising club at a luncheon in Liberty hall.

The senator unavoidably was a little late in arriving and, therefore, escorted to his talk by a comparatively large and curious survey of present-day economic problems as they affect New England, Lowell and all other textile centers within the commonwealth.

A reception committee representing the chamber included H. Hutchins

LOWELL'S OBSERVANCE OF PATRIOTS DAY WILL INCLUDE REUNION OF OLD 6TH REGIMENT

CAPT. JOSIAH M. JONES

Lowell tomorrow, with other Massachusetts and Maine cities and towns will observe Patriots day, localized as a holiday in these two states and one more will freshen memories of that gallant band of Middlesex county farmers who sprang to arms on that April morning in 1775 when a foe from across the sea threatened the very foundations of the liberty upon which the 13 original states were formed.

Coming at the very threshold of spring, when it is good to get out of doors after a typical New England winter, this annual holiday primarily is marked by outside recreational opportunities and so it will be tomorrow, which ushers in the actual baseball season in the city and if the day is fair will send hundreds of golfers to the three courses Lowell is so fortunate to possess.

The only military aspect of the observance will be the annual reunion of the old sixth Massachusetts regiment at Memorial hall. Although the ranks of the regiment are thinning, the organization is thriving and Lowell now is able to honor hardly more than a dozen survivors, the spirit of civil war days still abides as a consuming flame and to-

$700,000 SCHOOL HOUSE LOAN BILL INTRODUCED TODAY BY REP. THOMAS J. CORBETT

Rep. Thomas J. Corbett this afternoon introduced a bill in the state legislature providing for a loan of $700,000 outside the state fund, the money to be expended for the purpose of purchasing or otherwise acquiring land as a site for the construction of a school building in the South End district of this city. The loan is to run for 20 years at 12 per cent interest.

Under the terms of the house bill now will automatically go to the committee on rules on the question of adjournment, and it is probable that this committee will grant a hearing on the matter, at which the petitioners will have an opportunity to present whatever facts they may have showing why the authorization is necessary. The bill now is in approved local form and all formalities have been complied with.

The petition accompanying the bill was signed by eight members of the city council, namely: Councilors Conner, Hennessey, Dwyer, Scullion, Morrill, McFadden, Fitzgerald and Gallagher. It was also signed by all the members of the school committee, including the mayor, who is chairman.

No bill of this kind can be introduced into the general court except through a member of the house or senate and in this case Representative Corbett introduced it without necessarily committing himself to its provisions.

Buildings and Land Purchased For Notre Dame de Lourdes Parish

The property consisting of a 15-room house and large stable and 100-acre square feet of land located at the corner of Middlesex and Wilmersgreen, owned by the Alfred S. Horne estate, has been purchased by the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Boston for Notre Dame de Lourdes parish, which is under the direction of the archdiocese there. The sale was effected through the office of St. Pierre & Bergeron and the sale price was in the vicinity of $25,000.

When asked this morning for what purpose the property had been purchased, Rev. William J. McFadden, O.M.I., pastor of Notre Dame de Lourdes, stated that plans had not yet been formulated and that he had no statement to make at present, however, that the parish is contemplating erecting a new and larger church on the new site and that pending the time that plans are completed for the new building, the building on the site may be used as a home for

The large and beautiful addition to the present nurses' home of the Lowell Corporation hospital is rapidly nearing completion and it is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by July 1.

Upon the completion of the building the hopes of the hospital officials for years will be attained and all the nurses will be accommodated under one roof, in quarters ample to their needs and with the most modern equipment.

The addition under construction consists of another story added to the old home, making it three stories in height, and an ell which is also three stories high. The whole building is of wood and will, when finished, be painted white with green blinds to match the finish on the hospital building proper.

The old nurses' home is being completely renovated to present an appearance of newness throughout the whole structure. The entrance to the building is on the side facing the hospital building and is of colonial style. Stairways are located on the Merrimack street end of the old structure and the Salem street end of the new.

On the first floor of the old section is located a suite, consisting of sitting room, a bedroom and bath, for the superintendent of nurses; a reception room and a library.

The addition on this floor are ten bedrooms, one bath, one linen room and a sun room with a hall running the length of the addition. On the second floor of the old building are five bedrooms and a bath; in the new section are 11 bedrooms, a bath and a sun room. The third floor over the old building is now and contains five bedrooms and one bath. The third floor in the addition has 11 bedrooms, a bath, and a sun room, with a hall running the length of the building.

The flooring of the first story of the old section is of oak, the other floors are all finished with linoleum covering. The interiors will be painted. The bath rooms are floored with tile, and the walls are of the half way up, being painted above.

Lighting fixtures are of the newest type and outlets are placed in convenient places so that vacuum sweepers and other electrical appliances may be easily attached. A feature of the building's equipment is a dust chute having openings on each floor for the shaking of floors and dusters. This chute is cleared by an electric fan which is placed on the top of the building and forces the dust down into a receptacle in the basement.

In the basement is located an up-to-date laundry and the heating equipment. This is of the single-pipe steam style with a large boiler.

A telephone connecting with the main hospital building will be placed in each corridor to facilitate the calling of nurses to the hospital in case of emergency.

The estimated cost of the building is $70,000. Davis & Lynn were the architects and Robinson and Robinson the general contractors.

A small house, with fifteen rooms which formerly stood where the addition is now, has been moved to a position nearer the hospital and farther away from the street.

At the present time there are 36 pupil nurses and seven graduate nurses located at the hospital. They are living in several houses close by the hospital and will, when the home is completed, all live under one roof, where each nurse will have a room for her own use.

The Corporation hospital was founded in 1833, the Kirk Root house being moved to the corner of Merrimack and Pawtucket streets at that time to serve as a hospital. In the early years of its existence, 25 or 30 patients were taken care of yearly. As the corporations and the city have grown, the hospital has been enlarged to meet the demands made upon it. During the past year 2500 patients were cared for at the hospital as regular patients, staying for a length of time varying from a few days to several months, and 5625 were treated in the outpatient department.

The hospital gets its income partly from the patients, and whatever more is necessary for its continuance from the corporations which are members of the hospital corporation.

Up to 1911 the nurses were quartered in the hospital building. At that

CHELMSFORD WATER ADDRESS THE DISTRICT MEETING EDUCATIONAL CLUB

Every article in the warrant for the Chelmsford water district meeting, which was held last evening in the Central town hall, was acted upon favorably. The meeting was largely attended and Walter Perham acted as moderator. The amounts voted and the purpose of the votes were as follows: Extension of the water main in Steadman street to the home of Mrs. Nellie Waller, $1200; extension in Woodbine street, Westland avenue and Cypress street, $200; refund to Geo. W. Day for the extension of water service at Mustfield park, $207.95; extension in Sunset avenue, $600; extension in Dulton road, $4530. It was also voted to change article one of the by-laws so that the annual meeting of the district shall be held on the last Monday in January instead of the third Monday as heretofore.

Miss Edith Terry gave a very interesting talk yesterday afternoon to the members of the Educational club at their meeting in the Central M. E. church. Miss Terry has made a thorough study of conditions in foreign countries in this country during the past 10 years and it was regarding this subject that she spoke. This research work which she undertook was with the national board of the Y.W.C.A. and many of her observations were of life in New York city. In discussing the attitude of the English speaking people toward the foreign-born, Miss Terry said that they took one of four different attitudes which are as follows: "First, the person who speaks of his American in a wonderful way, says that he speaks English, these people do not, they eat and even act differently from what he does, which is right, so they are wrong. Second, the folks who are sentimentally and passionately interested in some specific problem when their sympathies are worked on through tragic stories. Third, an attitude of indifference. Fourth, are the few in number who feel that here is a challenge to all

ANNUAL BALL BY LADIES OF CHARITY

The committees in charge of the annual ball of the Ladies of Charity of St. John's hospital have practically completed their plans for this affair which is to be held next Friday evening, and are looking forward to it as the most successful ball ever given by the association and one of the outstanding social events of the season. The Hospital Aid association, composed of men is working in conjunction with the Ladies of Charity, and these two organizations are leaving no stone unturned in their effort to make the affair a great success.

time more nurses were needed than could be accommodated so the hospital purchased the building that is now being enlarged and fixed it up for a nurses' home. This did not answer the demands for any length of time so the small house, previously mentioned, was fitted up to accommodate 15 nurses. The idea of having the nurses in two or three different buildings was not the best from the standpoint of landiness and supervision so it was finally decided to enlarge the house purchased in 1911. With the completion of the home, the Lowell Corporation hospital nurses will be well provided for.

that is best in us as Americans, a willingness to face facts as they are, open and unflinching, realizing that no one group in the world ever was absolutely right and the other all wrong. Personally, I know of no other solution of the problem but to apply the Golden Rule."

K. OF C. RECEPTION TO SENATOR WALSH

Novins, D. S. Brennan, Charles J. Leathers, Joseph E. McMahon and Fred J. Roche. Grand Knight John E. Hart has general charge of arrangements.

BAND BOX SCENE IN "THE JADE GONG"

One of the numbers of "The Jade Gang," the musical revue to be given by the Girls' City club in the Auditorium tomorrow night, is the band-box scene. This is laid in a French hat shop. Miss Lorraine Delanger, dancer and singer, is the French maid, Frederick Brydon, of New York, is a visitor to the shop and Miss Doris Conley will be "the girl in the band-box."

The dancing chorus in this specialty is done by six well-trained dancers, Miss Florence Seaton, Bertha Choquette, Madeline Burrows, Anna Conway, Helen Doran and Gladys Williams. The boxes for this scene were designed and decorated here in Lowell, especially for this number.

MANY DELIVERIES BY
LOWELL MOTOR MART

High-water mark was attained in deliveries this week by the Lowell motor car dealers and shipping departments have been rushed both day and night getting out cars for owners, who, while they may have ordered weeks or even months ago, were not willing to put their new cars on the road until they were reasonably certain of having good going. This year the winter conditions have held on so long that an unusually large number of April deliveries accumulated. One of the busiest of the local dealers the past few days has been the Lowell Motor Mart, the Dodge Brothers dealer, which has put out the largest number of cars in the course of the week that has been delivered in a similar period for many months. Anticipating the big rush for deliveries, this company has accumulated a large stock of cars, but with orders that have come in day after day, and are continuing at an unprecedented rate, it has been impossible to keep pace with them. Weeks ago this company gave the factory carte blanche to ship to Lowell cars far beyond the contract allotment, although that was much larger for 1922 than any previous year.

Mechanical reliability that is institutionally Reo is built into the double-framed chassis, in which major units are cradled and protected against the effect of road shocks.

In the 6-cylinder engine is developed 50 horse power. Whether purring through city traffic, hurrying along the straight-aways or plodding over desert trails, the Reo owner takes motor goodness for granted.

Never has a motorist been so privileged to be so exacting in the choice of a Buick as in the present season, says Mr. Hale of the Buick Co. Fifteen different passenger models, both sixes and fours, covering the widest sort of range, are included in the line for 1923. Each is designed to meet particular motoring needs. Each is an outstanding value. This achievement in anticipating what the motoring public desires in a vehicle is attributed to the fact that Buick has been working along steadily on a production schedule that has made possible the building of 1,000,000 motor cars in 20 years.

PRICES TO ADVANCE
M. S. FEINDEL PREDICTS

Higher prices for automobiles continue to be a topic of discussion among automobile men. M. S. Feindel, one of Lowell's leading automobile dealers and one who has been in the business since 1900, says that the prices of automobiles must advance. The rising cost of materials and labor make the rising of automobile prices imperative. Already one of the cars which Mr. Feindel handles has advanced in price, and he expects other advances to follow.

NOTED CANADIAN TENOR
IS WELL RECEIVED

Paul Dufault, the celebrated tenor, who is commonly called the Canadian McCormack, demonstrated to a large and appreciative audience at the Memorial Auditorium last evening that he is a singer of great ability and capable of splendid interpretation. This was Mr. Dufault's first appearance before a Lowell audience and he made a very favorable impression.

The large hall was not filled, but the size of the audience was very gratifying, when the fact that several noted artists have visited Lowell during the past few months is taken into consideration. The 1800 or 2000 who were present, however, thoroughly enjoyed the program and showed their appreciation of the tenor's work by giving him numerous encores, and much to the credit of the artist he cheerfully responded to every encore given.

Mr. Dufault was ably assisted in the evening's program by William Bloddeau, a local violinist of wide reputation, who entertained very pleasantly with his numerous selections. Alfred Carrier, a brilliant pianist of Montreal, accompanied Mr. Dufault, and also rendered several difficult selections. The accompaniments for Mr. Bloddeau were played by Louis N. Gullbault of this city, organist at St. Margaret's church and director of the Gullbault academy of music.

The opening numbers were "Prelude," Opus 28 by Chopin and "Theme Varlo" of Chaminade, piano selections ably rendered by Mr. Carrier. This was followed by the playing of "Londonderry Air" on the violin by Mr. Bloddeau.

Mr. Dufault's first number was "Si Vous Croyez" by Offenbach, a simple yet captivating song, which was rendered with great ease. This was followed by "The Bird Song," a ballad entitled "The Bird Song." As encores the artist sang "Ave Maria," "Angels," and "L'Arctique," numbers that gave him a great opportunity to demonstrate the high and powerful range of his pleasing voice.

In his next group of songs which included "Bird of Love Divine," by Haydn-Wood, "Sylvia" by Shostakovich, "The Prodigal Son" by Sir Arthur Sullivan, the audience was afforded an opportunity of hearing his remarkable rendition. Particularly pleasing was his "Bird of Love Divine," a masterpiece, which he rendered with smoothness and delightfully distinct enunciation.

Other numbers included "Derivatives Volontes" by Gounod, "A Des Oiseaux" by George Hue and "Valse." The last group of songs consisted of "The Little Mother of Mine," "Four Leaf Clover" by Brownell and "Thank God for a Garden," Del Riego. His final number was "Adieu" by Tosti. In the course of the program Mr. Dufault also rendered numerous old folk songs frequently heard in the villages of Canada and these numbers made a decided hit with the audience. All in all the evening's program was very enjoyable and it is fair to assume that Mr. Dufault will fill the large Auditorium at his next concert.

Veteran Indian Dies With "Boots On"

OMAHA, Neb., April 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Fighting, smiling, gray-haired old "Lone Star" Fred M. Hans, Indian fighter, frontier scout and possibly the last of the real two-gun "cross-arm draw" experts, met death here last night with his "boots on." But death did not come on the field of battle where he had so often faced it, nor on the wings of a bullet. He was shot while at an elevator shaft at the Omaha World-Herald plant, where he was night watchman. Lone Star was caught by the elevator when he attempted to move the control lever from the outside and the lift suddenly shot upward.

RAVE—AND PAY!

Even if Gas Goes Up, Don't Buy a Substitute

When summer comes, prepare to raise again against the high price of gasoline.

But don't go any further. Don't be misled into buying a substitute that is claimed to be "cheaper and more economical" because "there ain't no such animal."

The farmer said that of the giraffe when it was actually before him, but the American motorist has nothing as yet that can prove its superiority over gasoline. Scientists who are testing certain fuel combinations expect to bring out a worthy substitute, but they are still experimenting.

Alcohol Costly

Alcohol is being used in Cuba and other countries as motor fuel—but it's cheaper there than it is in this country. Gasoline, despite its inferiority, is more economical to use here because of its lower price. Even when this price will be raised considerably by the heightened summer demand.

There are innumerable substitutes for gasoline—any hydro-carbon will do the work—but not a single one has been found as practicable and economical as the fuel in general use today. Chemists of the United States bureau of mines in Washington are testing out numerous forms of hydro-carbons for motor use, and so are engineers of private automobile manufacturing firms.

Anti-Knock Found

What they have found so far has been an anti-knock compound which increases the efficiency of the gasoline now in use. Engines are being tested in connection with this fuel mixture, so as to produce certain changes in their construction that will make for better driving and get more mileage out of the gasoline consumed.

Even this anti-knock compound is not yet ready for use. Eventually it will be added to every gallon of gasoline put into the tank, but the motorist would not as yet economize by using it. Its cost is high, because it is hard to get.

Outside of this anti-knock compound, no hydro-carbon has been found to replace gasoline as more beneficial and economical. Many pills and other substitutes may be foisted on the driving public, but the wise driver will not be fooled.

REBOUND IS CHECKED

Not only is the first shock from a jolt checked by this form of shock absorber for a popular small car, but an auxiliary spring catches the car on the rebound and checks that shock. It is called a Double Shock absorber.

He appealed and the case went to the superior court where disposition, as stated above, took place.

STRENGTH AND SAFETY IN THE BODY OF STEEL

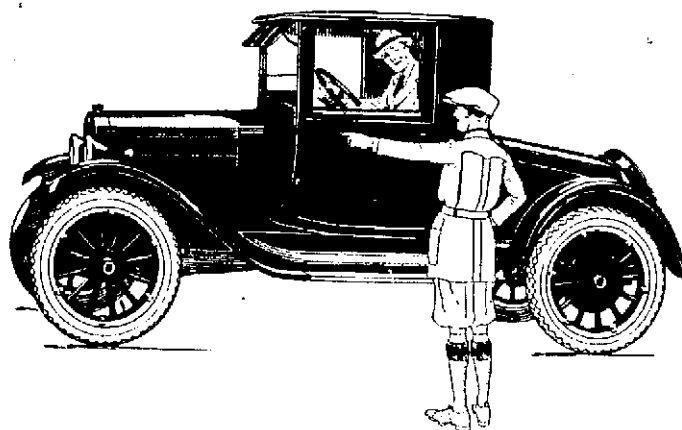

If you could see the main body structure of Dodge Brothers Business Coupe before the enamel is baked on, and before the interior is furnished, you would be profoundly impressed by its strength.

You would see that every panel, every pillar, and every rib is steel—that even the door sills and window mouldings are steel.

You would see that all of these parts and sections are electrically welded together into one staunch steel body, with no bolts or rivets to work loose, nothing to rattle or squeak or warp.

And you would realize that, like the all-steel Pullman coach, this unique construction—originated by Dodge Brothers for this car—represents the last word in protection to passengers—the ultimate achievement in closed car sturdiness.

INTERESTING ADDRESS BY TEXTILE SCHOOL PRESIDENT BEFORE MILL OVERSEERS

"The educated man of today, is one who can make his job a better one, and who can adapt himself to changing conditions," asserted President C. H. James of the Lowell Textile school, addressing an audience of mill overseers, in Liberty hall last night. The educated man should not be confused with the learned type of man, the individual who is merely theoretical in his knowledge.

President James' Address

Mr. James speaking on "How can a man make his job a better one?" said: This subject coming as it does at the close of this series of lectures is intended to sum up the thoughts expressed by the previous speaker, and to point the way in which the objects of improving the industry and the individual may be accomplished.

In attempting to answer this question we may fairly ask, Yankee fashion, two other questions: Are we concerned with the job irrespective of the occupant, which means a consideration of the material factors that enter into the job? Are we concerned with the personal efficiency of the one occupying the job whatever it may be, which means individual growth and advancement to the higher and better paid job?

Self preservation is the main thought of every man and advancement through legitimate and justifiable means should be the ambition of all.

With the single exception of one, "Gotten and Its Uses," all of the addresses have dealt with the relationship of the individual to his job. I would classify them about as follows:

Relation of the individual to physical preservation.

Relation of the individual to his associates.

Relation of the individual to his surroundings.

Relation of the individual to the financial success of the mill.

These are intended to acquaint us with some of the factors of our daily job that are considered of great moment compared with the quantity and quality of production.

It is the result of daily routine in the same job that our vision becomes short and restricted. We lose sight of other conditions, the study of which may help to not only improve our job, but advance ourselves. Are we not all of us members of the awkward squad to whom the impatient sergeant commands: "Come out here and look at particularly that you may thoroughly yourself." In order to make our job a better job should we not come out of ourselves and look or rather study ourselves to see wherein we may add to our skill and knowledge that improvement and advancement may be attained.

If we obey the sergeant's command and go out of the squad we shall doubtless see why we are awkward in the sense that we are not working in unison with the others (our associates). This may be due to lack of knowledge of the requirements of our job or the ignorance of the limitations of the other fellow and his job. We should know more thoroughly than we do the problems of the department, mill, shop or producer from which comes the material that we handle as well as the difficulties that confront the department, selling house and merchant. The producer aiming to meet the needs of the manufacturer, the manufacturer aiming to meet the requirements of the consuming public as reflected through the merchant and wholesaler will help to produce conditions that are both peaceful and profitable. This ideal condition spells co-operation through a greater acquisition of knowledge and development that we understand to be education.

Educated Employees

In so far as an industry is operated by educated employees will it approach the goal of success. The meaning attached to education here is the broadest and one given by an educated person in this city, when he indicated that the true meaning of an educated person was in terms of his ability to adapt himself to changing conditions and to co-operate with his associates in the general advancement of mankind. This point of view makes a distinction between a learned man who in spite of his learning is unable to be of value to his fellowman and the intelligent man who because of ability in mind and personality is a great factor in the advancement of society.

It is fair to assume that all who attend these lectures are in accord with this belief, otherwise they would not be interested in these subjects, which are to aid the educated man. Making our job a better job requires that we become educated individuals able to adapt ourselves to changing conditions as they arise, and we must seek every means of so preparing ourselves, that we can meet the new requirements. Aside from the personal factor which gives us the desire to improve our job is the necessity of knowledge of the technique of our daily work. This should not be confined to the limited requirements of our specific job but should extend into all departments to which our job is in any way related.

Fortunately there are, through systematic forms of education, many institutions where the technique of our jobs can be acquired. In this city there are a number of such institutions established for this purpose and I wish to take you by means of lantern slides and moving picture film through one of these institutions, that you may in a measure, see its equipment and more markedly "come out here and look at particularly that you may thoroughly sense the primary object of this institution to aid in the development of educated employees within the textile and allied industries. Again the word "educated" is here used in the same sense as before and applies to everyone whatever his position or job may be.

Textile School Institution

The instruction at the Lowell Textile school has been so systematized that two schools have been established.

One, the evening school, that provides courses for those who are at work in the day and desire to study the technique of their daily job and to know about other jobs to which their own is related. This school offers broad and extended courses requiring several years to complete and also short courses requiring only a single year to finish.

The other school, the day school, offers broad and complete courses for those who have had the equivalent of a good high school training and who can devote three or four years to such educational training that they may enter the textile industry with a mental equipment that should assure them some place where they may enrich the industry. The character of the courses in these day classes has been recognized of such a grade that the school is now classified with the colleges and technical schools of this country and like these has the power to confer degrees to students who complete certain four-year courses.

An institution like this tends to develop for the textile industry the kind of scientifically trained men that have no improved other great industries in the enrollment and advancement of civilization. It should be the desire of all those in the textile industry that it shall keep pace with other industries. When this course of meetings was planned at the first of this season, it was expected that the meetings would be held at Southwick hall of the Lowell Textile school, but because of the distance from the center of the city many felt that Liberty hall was much more convenient for all. If the original plan had been carried out, we should conduct these in attendance through the buildings of this institution this evening. As that is not possible I am planning to substitute for a trip of this sort a series of lantern slides showing the various departments and equipment and also a moving picture film illustrating the manufacture of a piece of worsted goods. Incidentally it may be of interest to you to know that this film was prepared by representatives from the federal department of agriculture a number of years ago.

Object of the Film

The object of preparing this film was to display it through the western states, especially in those that are known as the wool growing states of this country. This was for the purpose of informing the farmers and wool growers concerning the processes of manufacturing woolen and worsted goods that they might so prepare their wool that it could be used in best advantage by the manufacturers. The federal government made a second film which is used here tonight, and gave it to the school. Doubtless many here will recognize the actors as they have been members of the instructing staff at the school for many years.

It is hoped that back of the attempt to interest you this evening in this particular institution which forms such a vital part of the industry in this city and state, that you will see the main object which is to bring before you the importance of more thorough, advanced, and broader training for those who are planning to enter it, to the end that this important industry in this section of the country may play its part as it has in the past and that it may play its part to the advancement of Massachusetts and the New England states. This can be done, in my opinion, only by developing more intelligent and more highly trained employees in all departments of the industry. The Lowell Textile school and the other agents that have arranged for this series of meetings trust that you have gleaned this main purpose and that you will co-operate in the future to the utmost, not only in your daily work and with the other departments with which you are associated, but that you may encourage by your presence and your personal interest the course of similar lectures which are contemplated for next season.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND
"The Dangerous Age" is a picture that has real merit to it. See it for the first time today at The Strand. Then there is Charles Fox in one of his most entertaining comedy dramas, "Allas Julius Caesar." The rest of the bill is in keeping with the high standard established by the features.

We recommend the offering to all lovers of good picture programs. Before you hurry for money go and see "The Darling of the Rich," which will be shown during the last three days of the week, starting with matinee on Thursday. Betty Blythe, with Montagu Love and a competent cast, give a wonderfully good presentation in it. The dramatic developments are excellent, and the story is convincing. Dorothy Farnum wrote the story especially for Betty Blythe. It gives the star opportunity to wear some of her gorgeous gowns. Dustin Farnum in "Three Who Paid" will be the other feature, and this, too, will surely appeal to the majority. It is a great story, filled with action and dramatic incidents, and has some excellent photography to make it high grade.

RIALTO THEATRE

The same success which characterized the showing of "The Third Alarm" at the Rialto theatre on Sunday and Monday of this week was again in evidence yesterday afternoon and last night when the picture enjoyed the third day of its week's showing. The picture is one of the most sensational of this entire season and is filled with thrilling scenes. The rescue of a girl from the top floor of a burning building in one of the best that has ever been effected. Don't fail to see it before Saturday.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"A Dress Rehearsal," which is a clever travesty on the way things sometimes happen in the theatre, is the laugh-provoking feature at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. George Choo presents it in a specially good manner, with the aid of a company which plays it very seriously. Janet of France, otherwise Janet Martine, in "A Little Touch of Paris," gives a specially entertaining exhibition, aided and abetted by Charles Haug. The act is of the "different" type in every particular. The remainder of the bill holds bright spots, noteworthy among them being O'Brien & Rule in song and comedy; Howard & White, in "The Gadabouts," Flaherty & Stoning, Vaudeville Tid Bits; Daly and Berlew whirlwind dancers and Al Striker, a most unusual contortionist.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Local theatrical critics gave their unanimous approval of "Sweet Innisfallen," playing at the Lowell Opera House this week. This play which is woven around an appealing story laid in the rustic beauty of old Ireland, is wonderfully captivating. Bernard Daly, the romantic tenor who knows how to sing the world famous folk songs as they should be sung, was given a real ovation for his mastery acting in the part of the good hearted Irish lad, Edith Stockton, the former Viagraph star, who will be with the company for the rest of the season, was charming in the role of Nora Shannon. She has the rare quality known as personal magnetism, and she knows how to use her charming voice to get the best results. The work of Malcolm McLeod as Myles Regan, shows that this well known member of the Lutteringer stock company is one of the most versatile actors that have played in Lowell for some time. The play is excellent throughout and its success so far has been enormous.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "Jazzmania," starring the Murray. One of the most remarkable coincidences of the late war, a dual resemblance by which a returning veteran is mistaken for one of his buddies who has gone "west," furnishes the situation upon which are founded the stirring developments in "Sonny," the third First National attraction starring Richard Barthelmess. Which will be shown at the Merrimack Square theatre for three days commencing Thursday.

"Sonny" is a dramatic story of motherless manhood. It goes straight to the heart and soul, "Tollable David" in poignancy.

Blind Russian Violinist Who Played His Way Into America

ABRAHAM HAITOWITSCH

Abraham Haitowitsch, blind Russian violinist, engaged to appear at the Lowell Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday evening, April 24, actually played his way into America as an immigrant while standing in an immigration pen at San Francisco. He had been examined and found to be blind. He must go back was the sentence that crushed down upon him and seemed to blot out and kill all his hopes. Then he took his violin from its battered case, lovingly fingered it and setting it beneath his chin, began the beautiful "Tchaikowski" serenade. "Who is that?" asked Immigration Commissioner Edward White, seated in his office. "A young blind Russian who must be deported," he was told. The commissioner ordered the immigrant to be brought before him and when Haitowitsch appeared he was asked to play the selection again. Haily seemed to realize that in his music lay his only hope for admittance. There was no applause when his bow stopped and the commissioner thanked him and ordered him to return to the pen. In another room were the members of the examining board and Commissioner White went before them with the remarkable request that they reconsider their decision. They did and the boy was admitted. Today he is the latest Russian sensation of the violin and Lowell music lovers will be given an opportunity to hear him on the evening of the 24th. Tickets now are on sale at Steinert's.

ESSAY CONTEST SUBJECT

Bureau Chief Interprets Essay Contest Subject for High Schools

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—In response to numerous requests for an interpretation of the words "highway transport," the mammoth new industry that has grown up since the advent of the automobile, Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads, has prepared a definition for the use of students participating in the annual high school essay contest conducted by the highway education board.

The subject of the essays to be written in the contest this year, in which thousands of high school students are trying to win a $4000 scholarship, is "The Influence of Highway Transport Upon the Religious Life of the Community," and according to letters, students throughout the country have not always been clear as to the meaning of the words "highway transport." Mr. MacDonald's definition is therefore in answer to these requests.

"Highway transport, or highway transportation," says Mr. MacDonald, "deals with the movement of persons and things over the highways, and has to do with the instruments of transportation, the highway and the vehicle, as well as the services rendered by these transportation instruments."

This interpretation is being supplied all high schools in an effort to give students the clearest understanding of the subject on which essays are to be written.

Highway transport, therefore, embraces not only the automobile and the motor truck, but implies the use of these vehicles for the transportation of passengers and commodities over the roads. The contact of the two, the vehicle and the road, constitutes highway transport. Its growth has closely paralleled the development of the automobile industry, and in its entirety it today represents an investment of billions of dollars.

Many schools have inquired what is meant by the words "religious life," and the words "my community." In response to these requests the board has said that "religious life" may be taken to mean not only church attendance but the general moral tone of a community or locality as well. The student may regard the phrase "my community," says the board, as his immediate locality, his county or township, or even the state.

The unique nature of the subject of the contest has provoked an unusual amount of study and discussion. Never before have the relation of transportation and religion been so seriously considered. The request for an interpretation are taken to mean the most widespread interest in the contest. Letters from students, principals and superintendents of schools reflect the thought that is being stimulated in this connection.

Welcoming the contest in behalf of the students of New York city Dr. William L. Ettinger, superintendent of schools, says: "I am deeply interested and wish to assure you of our cooperation in placing the matter before the high school principals and students."

From Alabama Dr. Over Carmichael, superintendent of schools of Selma, Alabama, writes: "I shall have pleasure in calling this to the attention of our high school pupils and encouraging them to participate. I feel that in sponsoring this contest each year you are making a real contribution to the boys and girls in our high schools in America, and to our civic life as well."

WINNER IN LOWELL DAY ESSAY CONTEST

Below is printed the prize-winning essay of John S. Macdonald, of the Charles W. Morse school, who was awarded the gold Eversharp pencil by the judges of the chamber of commerce Lowell day essay on the subject: "How Can We Make Our Streets Safe for School Children?" The special prize essay by Miss Anna Heath of St. Michael's school was published in this paper about a week ago and it is the intention of The Sun to continue publication of the individual compositions until the list is completed. Master Macdonald's essay: How can we make our streets safe for school children is a question which is asked by many persons in authority throughout the municipalities of our commonwealth today. Accidents continue to increase despite the best efforts of our traffic directors, public safety officers and public utility commissioners and will continue to increase until the legislature enacts some law to control the actions of the reckless automobile driver.

The remedy under existing conditions and in fact under all circumstances seems to depend on due care as all things depend on common sense. As children cannot be expected to exercise on older minds to protect the pupils from bodily injury going to and returning from school. It is therefore imperative duty of parents to inculcate into the minds of children the danger lurking in the paths of automobiles, street cars and other vehicles of high speed. The automobile has and always will continue to have a fascinating attraction for school children. Hence it is that most accidents happen while pupils are in the act of stealing rides on trucks and street cars where they cannot be seen by the operators. At all meetings of the Parent-Teacher associations, the safety of school children should be thoroughly discussed with the purpose of co-operation toward the instructions of school children into the danger that confronts them on the streets.

The municipal authorities should be asked to regulate the traffic laws, especially in the vicinity of schools. A rigid enforcement of the law should be demanded with severe punishment for violators.

It is said that our own city of Lowell ranks seventh place per capita in the number of accidents in the year

"Most of my patients are slowly poisoning themselves"

A prominent physician was speaking. "It is always amazing to me," he said, "to discover how many of my patients are slowly poisoning themselves with constipation—people who never realize that they are constipated at all."

Everyone knows that the "waste" which clogs the intestines must be removed regularly. If not—it begins to generate deadly poisons that escape into the blood and flood your whole system.

Yet nowadays there are fewer and fewer people who do not suffer from constipation. Our concentrated modern diet lets the intestinal muscles get soft and flabby. They fail to remove the waste completely—a poisonous residue is left in the intestines. Then, little by little, we begin to suffer from all the ills of constipation—premature age, loss of appetite and vitality, skin disorders, indigestion, etc.

Restoring thousands of sufferers to perfect normal health

Medical science knows that drugs and cathartics are useless in getting rid of the trouble—indeed, they actually weaken the intestinal muscles and make matters worse.

That is why so many physicians and hospitals are prescribing Fleischmann's Yeast today. Every cake consists of millions of tiny living plants, which soften and increase the bulk of the waste matter, and gently encourage even the weakest muscles to act. Every such action gives the muscles normal, natural exercise—something that violent cathartics and purges can never do—and so gradually trains them back to a healthy, active state.

Hundreds of thousands of men and women are finding in Fleischmann's Yeast the key to freedom from all the evils of constipation. They are learning that a body freed from poisons means such health and vigor as they have never known.

Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active, and that it loses its laxative effect when these cells are "killed" and dried.

Fleischmann's Yeast, like any other food must be eaten regularly, to secure results. Eat two or three cakes a day—plain, or dissolved in water, milk or fruit juices—preferably half an hour before a meal, or the last thing at night. Get several cakes at a time—they will keep several days in a cool, dry place. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast! All grocers have it.

Pity Little Babies Helpless to Resist Danger

ONE baby out of every seven dies needlessly. It is a crime against civilization. The miracle is that so many babies manage to live. Their tiny bodies are daily exposed to countless dangers.

Strangers from insanitary homes come near them. Whenever they are given an airing, street dust settles on their hands and faces.

That dust is not honest, harmless soil. In it are countless foes to health—the germs of serious disease. Yet baby hands carry it into mouth and eyes!

Dust is Dangerous

The great scientific organizations of America know what that dirt means to your baby. Years of study disclosed its real nature. They plead with thoughtful mothers to fight its dread menace.

Health authorities tell you that real cleanliness is the best protection. Of course you bathe your baby frequently. But is it the most thorough cleanliness possible?

One soap is famous as the health soap, because it safeguards against disease. It is called Lifebuoy.

The world's greatest soapmakers perfected it.

The Health Element

Lifebuoy contains the finest cleansing oils known. Simply as soap, you could not buy a blander, better toilet soap for baby. But Lifebuoy also has a wonderful health element blended in it. It makes possible the complete cleanliness necessary for baby's health.

Lifebuoy purifies and protects. Lifebuoy safeguards your baby's delicate skin.

Give the whole family the benefit of Lifebuoy's penetrating, protecting lather. Put a cake at every place where there is running water.

How men revel in Lifebuoy's clean copious lather! And how healthy and radiant it makes their skin!

Pure, unbleached palm-fruit oil is red. So Lifebuoy is RED. Coconut oil makes rich, creamy lather. The health element gives Lifebuoy its pungent, healthful odor.
